PRISONERS CAUGHT IN RAID ON COMMON ON WAY TO LAGRANGE STREET STATION

The State Guardsmen took no chances of any of their prisoners pulling guns and starting further trouble, so had them march along the street to the police station with hands upraised

LABOR MEN CONFER WITH MAYOR

The executive committee of the Boston Central Labor Union, headed by President Michael J. O'Donnell, conferred today at City Hall with Mayor Peters, presumably to discuss a sympathetic strike.

This action followed the sending of a telegram by Governor Coolidge to Secretary Daniels of the navy and Secretary of War Baker, asking them to hold themselves ready to render assistance immediately upon application.

Preparations to preserve order by Federal authority were also made at Army Headquarters, where the Intelligence Department arranged to cover every district of Greater Boston in response to an emergency call.

In the meantime progressive labor leaders, prominent church

"Curtis to Resign? Don't Believe It," Says Governor

Reports that Commissioner Curtis had determined to resign rather than work under the orders of Mayor Peters were scouted today by Governor Coolidge.

"Commissioner Curtis told me that he stood ready to do everything in his power and to co-operate in every possible way to meet the present situation. For him to resign in the face of existing conditions would not be living up to his promise in this regard. I am sure that there is nothing in it," he said.

U. S. ARMY MEN PREPARED FOR STRIKE CALL

Preparations are being made today at Chauncy street army headquarters for any emergency that may demand the help of Federal troops to preserve order during the policemen's strike.

As there is a possibility of a sympathetic strike, the Federal Government feels it ought to be ready for any emergency for the protection of life and property, the Boston headquarters authorities say.

If necessary, it was explained today, they could do this at once, without being required to send to Washington for orders. The calling out of Federal troops would be for the protection of government property and buildings, such as the custom house, the postoffice and Federal Building, the army supply base or other buildings.

In the event of the President calling out the Federal troops, he will find everything in readiness to meet the emergency. Every district is being studied out thoroughly today by experts, and it is stated that within ten minutes from the time of receiving orders, everything would be found in readiness.

The Intelligence Department is preparing cots and other necessary equipment required for hasty movement.

The telegram was signed by William A. Nealey, president and chairman of the committee of nine, appointed for express purpose of continually opposing the League of Nations in its present form.

Rain and More Rain, Best Weather Man Can Promise

Don't put away the trusty umbrella yet awhile, Mr. Optimist. Did the sun try to pass through this morning? Tush! He not deceived. More rain is coming. Showers tonight and early tomorrow, says the weather man. Fair skies are expected by noon Friday, with moderate winds shifting to southwest and west.

New England temperatures today were: Highest, Block Island, 67 degrees; lowest, Northfield, Vt., 48 degrees. The coldest spot in the country was Williston, N. D., 44 degrees, and the warmest Galveston, Tex., and Key West, Fla., 80 degrees. Reports from Key West gave temperatures but no wind conditions. This led authorities here to believe that the instruments for recording the direction and velocity of the wind were blown out to sea in a tropical storm.

"REPARE TO DRILL RIOTING WITH MACHINE GUNS

Police officials are preparing for serious riots in South Boston tonight as a result of rumors that have reached headquarters through guards stationed in that section of the city. Machine guns are being mounted on automobile trucks. One machine gun manned by a squad of guardsmen already has been placed in Station 6, South Boston. According to police officials, orders will be given to machine gun crews to shoot to kill if serious rioting occurs.

MARTIAL LAW IN CASE OF GENERAL STRIKE

If a general strike is called in Boston Governor Coolidge will undoubtedly call the Legislature in special session and ask that martial law be declared. Under the constitution, there can be no declaration of martial law without action by the Legislature. The Governor has instructed the Attorney-General to examine the statutes with respect to such a declaration, in order that no time may be lost in putting the city of Boston in control of military authorities if occasion arises. Governor Coolidge said today that if it become necessary to call Federal troops to Boston in the present crisis they will report to the Mayor for instructions.

MAYOR AWAITS C. L. U. SETTLEMENT PLAN

The Mayor indicated before going into a conference with C. L. U. officials today that he had no proposition for the settlement of the police strike to submit and that any proposed settlement would have to come from the labor men.

At Fenway Park—[illegible] inning.

REQUEST FOR PARK POLICE ELIGIBLES

The Metropolitan Park Commission today filed with the Civil Service Commission a requisition for all the names of men eligible for appointment to the park police. While Secretary Rogers of the Park Commission declined to comment on the circumstances, it was generally assumed that the commission intended to replace those men who refused to assist in policing the city.

Clothing Prices Reduced By Large Manufacturer

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Mr. Jas. D. Bell, head of the Bell Tailors, Adams at Green St., Chicago, Ill., said to be the largest made-to-measure clothing establishment in the world, recently stated that his firm is now able to quote prices on Fall and Winter suits 25 per cent. below what others are asking. To prove his point he showed the writer a very attractive piece of all wool cassimere for which they ask only $20.00 a suit made to individual measure, whereas the same fabric is now being offered by merchants at $30.00 to $32.00 per suit. Even larger savings are offered on their higher priced suits. Every reader of this paper should write Mr. Bell for his price list, and a free copy of his style book No. 175, which contains large cloth samples of many beautiful patterns.—Advt.

FORTY-FOUR ARE ARRESTED IN RAID ON GAMBLERS ON COMMON

LEADERS SEEK TO PREVENT GENERAL WALKOUT

men and other citizens were bending every effort to avert a general strike following a meeting of the Central Labor Union tonight.

The victim of a shooting on Tremont street, following the roundup on the Common, was later identified as Raymond Barnes, formerly of Springfield and Somerville, whose address was given as No. 110 Austin street, Cambridge.

Shortly after the shooting, troops were poured into Scollay square and sentinels stationed every few yards, with the intention of preventing any such occurrences as took place there yesterday. Historic old Faneuil Hall was also being equipped to feed and shelter troops, in addition to the various armories in the city.

According to eye-witnesses, Ramesa, who is a merchant sailor, started an argument with a States Guardsman near the corner of Avery and Tremont streets and assaulted him. In the midst of the melee a volunteer policeman is said to have run up and shot the sailor, who was removed to the Relief Station. Fifteen minutes after arrival at the hospital the man died.

The roundup on the Common was the most spectacular event which has taken place in Boston in many years, and resembled a scene from the old Wild West. About 11 o'clock word was received at the Lagrange street police station by Lieutenant Dooley of F Company, 12th Regiment, that a big dice game was in progress on the Common in front of the K. of C. hut.

Lieutenant Dooley immediately doubled his men up Tremont street to the Common, and the soldiers surrounded the gamblers on four sides, taking them at a disadvantage. The forty-four dice players were commanded to put their hands up, and complied after hurried glances at the fixed bayonets of the guardsmen.

The officers, with drawn revolvers, then forced back the crowd and the troops, forming a hollow square, paraded their prisoners, with arms still elevated, down the Mall to the Lagrange street station.

NO SYMPATHY FOR GAMBLERS.

While the arrests were being made the large crowd which had gathered plainly showed their lack of sympathy for the gamblers. They cheered and applauded the soldiers as though witnessing a theatrical performance, and cries of "Don't arrest them, shoot them," were heard. The prisoners ranged from boys about fourteen 13 old men, but were largely composed of youths between twenty-one and thirty.

After a conference between the officers and officials at the police station the prisoners, with their hands reaching into the air, were escorted between double files of soldiers to police headquarters for arraignment.

In the meantime it was stated that General Parker was called into conference with the Mayor. Later it was announced that a conference of the Mayor's committee of thirty-four had been called at the Mayor's office.

POLES PLEDGE AID TO MAYOR.

Officers of the Boston Polish Citizens' Committee, with headquarters at No. 220 Hanover street, informed the Mayor that the support of this organization had been pledged to him during the crisis.

The members of the Boston Elevated Carmen's Union have taken no action relative to a sympathetic strike, according to a statement issued by James H. Vahey, counsel for the carmen, today. As further proof of this fact, Mr. Vahey added that the officials of the Carmen's Union were in Chicago attending a conference.

SEEK A. F. OF L. CHARTER.

That the striking policemen will have the support of the Boston Protective Department, the organization controlled by the insurance companies, in the event of a sympathetic strike was known today, by the filing of a petition by the entire membership of the organization, numbering about 90 men, for a charter from the A. F. of L.

Leaders of the movement stated today that the men wish to become organized in order to lend sympathetic aid to the striking policemen. The movement was hastened, according to the men, by the discharge today of James Moffitt, a member of the Boston Protective Department, who was discharged by Captain Samuel McDonald of the Appleton street station of the organization, with the only explanation that it was "for good of the service." According to the other members of the department, Moffitt's discharge is suspected of being brought about for union activity.

Recruits are being added to the ranks of the striking policemen, according to the statement of the men out on strike. Today it was reported that five of the loyal men from Station 14, Brighton, had joined, as well as two from Station 19, Mattapan, and two from 15, Charlestown.

Certain progressive leaders of organized labor were today determined to prevent a general strike decision in sympathy with the police at the Central Labor Union meeting tonight. These clear-thinking leaders, realizing that public opinion is aroused and that the cause of organized labor is not at fault, were bending every effort to prevent the radical element from gaining control and precipitating a general strike.

It was understood, further, that this struggle would be confined entirely to the meeting, and would not be allowed to spread through the various labor organizations of the city.

At the same time, it was announced by Brigadier-General Samuel D. Parker, commanding the State troops, that the entire force of about 4,000 men were ready for duty. General Parker, who established his headquarters in the office of Police Commissioner Curtis, said that the 14th Regiment from the Cape and the 20th from Western Massachusetts are on their way to this city.

FIREMEN IN SYMPATHY.

Although it is understood that a number of labor organizations, in the heat of controversy, voted to strike out of loyalty to the policemen's strike, the fact was stated that the American Federation of Labor officials have no authority to call a general walkout.

A strike vote must be taken by each organization, with a majority vote deciding.

Indications that the firemen of the city were in favor of a sympathetic strike were seen when various members of the department began to remove their clothing and personal effects from the fire houses.

Mayor Peters in a statement today declared that he would not take the initiative in negotiating with the striking policemen, and that nether would he fill their places with permanent patrolmen.

General Parker said that an investigation was being made of the shootings in South Boston, in which two men were killed and several persons, including women, seriously injured. Complete reports, he declared, were being made.

"BLOOD ON MAYOR," SAYS McINNES

President John F. McInnes of the policemen's union said: "Last night's blood is on the head of Mayor Peters."

He refused to comment on the fact that a number of striking policemen were mixed up in the rioting, one of them being fatally shot.

Mayor Peters referred to the casualties of the night's rioting as "deplorable." He said he understood that A. F. of L. leaders would be in the city today, but that he had no appointment to meet them. He was ready at all times, he added, to discuss the strike with anybody who desired to see him.

Other city officials declared that the opposition to allowing patrolmen to join the American Federation of Labor was as strong as ever, and that there would be no settlement on that basis.

MOB IN ANGRY MOOD.

The South Boston shooting put a sudden end to lawlessness which for a time exceeded that of the previous night. For hours the State Guardsmen had been the targets for mud, bricks and other missiles, hurled by a mob numbering several thousand.

So thoroughly had the mob the previous night completed its self-appointed task of smashing the store windows along Broadway that there was little for it to do in this direction, and it gave itself up to attacks on the guardsmen.

Retaliating to the onslaught of bricks and other things thrown at them, only by slowly and steadily pressing the throng of thousands gathered on Broadway at E street slowly back in the direction of Boston proper, the guardsmen stood the attacks of the mob without faltering. Under command of Captain Charles E. Hadley of C Company, 10th Regiment, a small squad of that company acting as skirmishers, pushed the crowd back to C street, where the fatal volleys were fired.

The mob had been in an angry mood since the guardsmen first appeared. They stoned and beat three volunteers who went on patrol duty, and who were finally rescued by the military.

Mgr. George A. Patterson, rector of St. Vincent's Church, in an address to the crowd at this time, pleaded with the men to be orderly. But his efforts were futile, for shortly afterward an organized gang, the members of which were armed with revolvers, took the head of the mob and began smashing such few windows as had escaped them the night previous.

While the confusion was at its height members of the mob began firing revolvers at the skirmish line of guardsmen from a nearby building.

SCREAMS OF TERROR.

Standing in front of his men, with his other officers, Captain Hadley gave the order:

"Ready—aim!"

The men in the skirmish line, extending entirely across the street from curbstone to curbstone raised their rifles and shotguns and leveled them at the mob.

Then someone shouted "Fire."

The skirmish line fired three volleys, the first two over the heads of the crowd, but the third somewhat lower. Five of those in the front ranks of the crowd sank to the ground. The rest of the mob scattered wildly, screaming in terror.

Captain Hadley and his men stated afterwards that he did not give the command to fire. It was his intention, he explained, to try and frighten the mob by the same tactics he had successfully used earlier in the evening.

It was claimed that some member of the crowd had cried "Fire," and that the guardsmen had mistaken it for a command from their officer.

Four of those lying stretched on the street were taken into the drug store of K. Bilioskas, No. 228 Broadway.

Only a few minutes before members of the mob had broken the windows of this store.

THREE GIRLS WOUNDED.

First aid treatment was given the wounded and emergency calls were sent for ambulances. The fifth man who fell got up and walked away. Three of those later treated for bullet wounds were girls.

Nine of the wounded were taken to the Carney Hospital and two were hurried to the City Hospital.

Robert Sheehan, sixteen, of No. 215 L street, was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Carney Hospital.

Helen Kelley, sixteen, of No. 157 Gold street, suffering from a wound in the head; Walter Karpycz, thirty-six, of No. 252 Third street, suffering from gunshot wounds, and Vincent Plansky, twenty-three, of No. 286 Bowen street, a well known ball player, who sustained gunshot wounds, were treated as hospital patients.

The following went to the hospital for treatment as outpatients: Mary Santos, sixteen, of No. 239 Third street; Gertrude Sullivan, sixteen, of No. 525 Seventh street; John C. Jackrick, of No. 2 Lawrence street; Charles Shea, seventeen, of No. 201 C street; Joseph Golden, seventeen, of No. 85 Old Harbor street.

FIND CARR IS DEAD.

When the City Hospital ambulances reached that institution Dr. Bittridge pronounced Anthony Carr dead.

Joseph Flaherty, thirty-eight, of No. 525 Second street was held for treatment for a compound fracture of the left femur, caused by buckshot.

The three wounded girls told the hospital authorities that they had been to the theatre and were on their way home, when they ran into the outskirts of the skirmish line.

This ended the rioting of the night in South Boston.

Rioting more brazen than that which marked Tuesday night, gave the military plenty to contend with on their first night as pinch hitters for Boston's police force. Although the evening was free from the wholesale pillaging which had marked the previous evening, it vented its wrath freely by breaking plate glass windows and maintained an ugly mood towards the guardsmen.

CHINAMAN BEATEN.

Order was almost completely restored in Roxbury, West Roxbury, Brighton and Jamaica Plain by the volunteer police and the State Guard. At the West Roxbury station 200 men were on duty, instead of the 63 patrolmen who usually police the district. The number included State Guardsmen and platoons of ex-service men, formed under the auspices of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association.

In Jamaica Plain a little excitement was afforded by a crowd of youthful thugs, who beat Yee Wah, a Green street laundryman, into insensibility, and robbed him of $4. They escaped. Their victim is at the City Hospital. Captain Joseph Harriman of the Jamaica Plain station is in the Faulkner Hospital suffering from a flesh wound accidentally inflicted while he was demonstrating a rifle.

At Roxbury Crossing auto thieves got busy in the rear of apartment houses on Huntington avenue. They were detected, and the machine taken away. The would-be thieves escaped only after an exciting chase by auto owners.

HOODLUMS SCATTERED.

At Dudley street the situation was in pleasant contrast to that of Tuesday night. State Guards and vigilantes covered the district thoroughly, and roving bands of hoodlums were broken up before they could stage chief.

Despite unofficial figures that upwards of 1,000 volunteer police had been enrolled during the last two weeks, figures received today show an actual enrollment of 525 volunteers who have been certified and assigned to various stations throughout the city. Of this number 500 were registered yesterday. This leaves a difference of 325 men who had previously enrolled.

About fifty or sixty volunteers reported today at the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. The arrival of the State Guardsmen in the city, it is reported, has left an impression that the city will be sufficiently guarded from now on, and in consequence the number of volunteers reporting today has been greatly reduced.

FOUR COURT CASES.

Charged with breaking and entering the vacant Whitten-Stone house at No. 832 East Broadway, South Boston, James M. Lee, fifteen, was in the South Boston Court today before Judge Logan. His case was continued until Saturday for the Juvenile Court.

Three youths, each nineteen years of age, charged with breaking and entering the restaurant of Constantine Zanaks at First and L streets, City Point, were held in $500 each for the Grand Jury. The boys are Vincent Conlon of M street, John V. Clarke of East Third street and John J. Barry of East Third street.

They were arrested by Sergeants Ramsey and Lovell of Station 12 about 1 a. m. Through their counsel, ex-Representative Daniel J. Casey, they waived examination.

A Model Policeman

Superintendent M. H. Crowley

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley in the present crisis has shown himself a model officer of the law.

When a crap game was discovered in progress in the street within a hundred yards of police headquarters and surrounded by a crowd of several hundred, he broke through the throng and seized one of the players.

The mob closed in on the superintendent, but, undaunted, he dragged his prisoner toward Pemberton square and held the angry crowd in check by pulling his gun.

SOMERVILLE MAYOR PRAISES PATROLMEN

Patrolmen William H. Donovan and Edward Cullinton, members of the Somerville police department, will be publicly commended for their bravery and meritorious conduct in the rapture of Salvatore DiDomenico after a running chase Tuesday, during which two shots were fired by DiDomenico at the patrolmen. The letter commending the police officers comes from Mayor Charles W. Eldridge and will be read at rollcall tonight. DiDomenico was arrested after a shooting affray in which the police say a man was murdered.

THIEVES GET $110 F OM RESTAURANT CASHIER

Three youthful bandits made a raid on the Carleton restaurant at the corner of Columbus avenue and Berkeley street and robbed the cashier, Morris Radnesky, of about $110. While one of the men was riding the cash register of its contents the others kept the patrons of the restaurant from coming to the assistance of the cashier. Then they ran down Isabella street and disappeared into a basement. Plain clothes men and a sergeant from Station 4 later searched the building but could find no trace of the thieves.

AUTO KILLS CHILD IN THE SOUTH END

Josephine Josepha of No. 72 Harvard street, South End, while playing in the street near her home, was struck and knocked down and fatally injured by an automobile. When a physician arrived she was dead.

Isadore Siegel, twenty-three years old, of No. 97 Intervale street, Dorchester, the driver of the machine, was held in $500 bail by M. Miner, No. 163 Commercial street, was held on a charge of manslaughter.

Announces Fare Increase

The Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway Company today notified the Public Service Commission that, beginning October 16, it would increase its fares from 7 to 10 cents. Tickets that now sell eight for 50 cents will be sold six for the same amount. The increase is necessary, the company says, because of the increased cost of operation.

MANCHESTER MAYOR DENOUNCES "PAVING RING"

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 11.—Mayor Verrette disapproves the method of Director of Public Works Samuel J. Lord in giving the city new streets. In a part statement to the director he states that he will not approve any bills for material where an equally good product can be obtained by competitive bidding for less money.

In a statement to the public the Mayor says there is a "paving ring which has its claw in its grasp."

"Clever politicians," he says, "planning for selfish interests and not for the benefit of the city are responsible for this unpleasant situation."

STRIKER IS SHOT AFTER ALLEGED HOLDUP OF VOLUNTEERS

OFFICERS' GUNS ARE TAKEN

Men Doing Police Duty Are Also Relieved of Their Clubs and Badges

Richard Reemts, thirty-six, striking patrolman of the Roxbury Crossing police station, was shot and seriously wounded early today while fleeing from Sergeant McDonald of the East Dedham street station, according to the police. Reemts and Arthur, D. Shay, another striking policeman, it is charged, held up and took clubs, guns and badges from two volunteer policemen.

Reemts was shot by Abraham Karp of No. 199 Columbus avenue, an automobile accessory dealer, who, seeing him running, in his direction and hearing shots, fired at him.

The bullet entered Reemts abdomen and he fell to the street. He was taken to the Commonwealth Armory in the State Guard ambulance, after which he was taken to the City Hospital.

The trouble started when Reemts and Shay drove down Columbus avenue to Buckminster street in an automobile. They inquired the way to Auburndale of volunteer policemen John Reid, twenty-four, of No. 63 Oak avenue, Belmont, and Thomas H. Gammock, twenty-three, of No. 9 Linden street, Cambridge. Words followed, after which, it is alleged, that the two policemen jumped out of the machine and attacked the two volunteers, taking guns, clubs and badges from them.

Sergeant John D. McDonald of the East Dedham street station appeared on the scene and the men fled. Reemts ran down Columbus avenue to where he was shot, and was taken to the East Dedham street police station, where he was charged with robbery.

Karp was later arrested by Sergeant McDonald on a technical charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

WANTS HARVARD TO INVESTIGATE STRIKE

An investigation of the policemen's strike and the causes leading up to it by a committee of Harvard professors appointed by President A. Lawrence Lowell, is urged upon the latter by the Harvard Liberal Club, Demarest Lloyd, secretary.

"As you have already taken action in this crisis, acting as a whole, though, however wise, may serve to broaden the breach between labor and the university and revive the age-long conflict of 'Town and Gown,' we therefore urge that the university should take further action of a more constructive nature," the letter reads.

"We therefore call upon you that a committee of university professors from the economics and social science departments be immediately appointed to make an independent, impartial investigation of the whole problem and to make recommendations for the correction of the existing difficulties which have led to the present deplorable crisis."

FLEEING THIEF IS CAUGHT BY MOTORMAN

One Greater Boston man captured a thief who had looted a clothing store on Kneeland street. He is Warren E. Emerson, No. 28 Tourro avenue, Medford, motorman on the Eastern Massachusetts street railway.

Emerson was waiting at a Kneeland street employment office to apply for a job for a friend when he saw a crowd of young men running down the street, pursued by the proprietor of the store.

When the crowd neared the employment office Emerson seized the thief and held him until two officers in plain clothes arrived. Meanwhile the rest of the gang tried to pummel Emerson, but he escaped with slight bruises.

MRS. JOHN W. DENNIS DIES AFTER FALL IN LONDON

By Universal Service.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, Sept. 11.—Mrs. John W. Dennis, wife of a member of Parliament and well known in New York society as the former Mrs. Robert Wood Johnson, died here as the result of a fall on the pavement in Brook street three weeks ago, when she broke a thigh.

The funeral will take place from the Dennis country home in Lincolnshire.

Folsoms to Celebrate

Lexington, Sept. 11.—The annual reunion of the Folsom Family Association will be held at Exeter, N. H., October 1. All descendants of John Folsom are invited. Frances E. Smith of No. 153 High street, Exeter, is secretary.

Colonel Gaston's Son on Police Duty at Station 16

Among the men who are doing such good work on the volunteer citizens' police force is John Gaston, son of William A. Gaston, lawyer, and chairman of the board of directors of the National Shawmut Bank.

Young Gaston, who has only recently returned to Harvard undergraduate life from the A. E. F., is assigned to Station 16.

He is a big upstanding youngster, eager and able to do his duty.

Soon after the opening of the war he enlisted in the marines, and earned his promotion to a lieutenancy from the ranks by his good work in France.

RIOTERS ON BOSTON COMMON BEING PUT UNDER ARREST

State Guardsmen shown putting men under arrest after they had subdued the rioting following the breaking up of crap games on Boston Common this morning.

GUARD ORDERED TO SHOOT DOWN LOOTERS

Looters of government property will be shot on sight, orders to this effect having been given the armed soldiers and sailors guarding U. S. buildings.

The naval guard on duty is from the navy yard and the details of soldiers are from the forts along Boston harbor.

Military guards have been posted at the old base hospital No. 10, Parker Hill hospital. The army supply base is also guarded by soldiers and sailors, detachments from each of the branches guarding the property under its special jurisdiction.

All but two of the entrances to the Federal building were barred, the only doors left open being those at the corner of Devonshire and Milk, and Devonshire and Water streets, both of which were carefully guarded.

The great steel doors, with which the entrances opening on the stairs leading to the upper floors of the building are fitted, were pulled tight and locked. These doors are two inches thick and were installed many years ago following the big Boston fire which threatened to destroy the building.

Army officers said that soldiers and sailors caught violating the laws of the city or State would be severely dealt with. The violators, however, must be arrested by the civil authorities, for the military and naval officials have not as yet received official orders from Washington to send out military or naval police to round up enlisted men who have violated the city laws.

SOUTH BOSTON MEETING AT MUNICIPAL BUILDING

Joseph A. Maynard, president of the South Boston Trust Company, today stated that the meeting called by former Lieutenant-Governor Edward P. Barry for the formation of a vigilance committee, was held at the Municipal Building instead of in the rooms of the South Boston Trust Company, as inadvertently reported in yesterday's American.

WARTIME GATES ALONG WATERFRONT AGAIN SHUT

Gates were closed on all the principal wharves along the waterfront with watchmen behind them under instructions to admit no persons without particular business there.

These gates are the same that constituted a barricade during the war when a barred zone prevailed and individuals without passes were not permitted to enter wharf property.

WORKERS VOTE TO AID NORTH ADAMS STRIKERS

North Adams, Sept. 11.—Members of the Woolen and Worsted Textile Workers' Union have voted to endorse the strike of cotton textile workers employed at the Windsor Print Works and to lend financial assistance.

To further aid the strikers Organizer Joseph R. White of Cohoes, N. Y., will come to the city.

City Clergymen Call for Law and Order

Prominent clergymen of Boston today appealed to true citizens to maintain their loyalty to law and order during the present crisis. Speedy justice for thugs and looters is advised, and labor unions are urged not to place the city in the throes of a general strike. The statements follow:

BISHOP EDWIN H. HUGHES of the New England diocese of the Methodist Church:

In reference to the police strike I am perfectly clear on several points.

While I have always and everywhere stood for the principle of union labor, and have, whenever necessary, accepted a penalty for so standing, I am convinced that the relation of our policemen to public order is officially such as to render their membership in labor unions highly inadvisable.

That they should be allowed to have their own organization goes without question, and that larger heed should be given to some of their demands is to me clear; but I do not believe that they should belong either to capitalistic clubs or to labor unions. Further, the present period of nervous tension would be the last reason for such affiliations, even if we allowed that it is ever proper.

I cannot at all appreciate the standpoint of the men who seize upon a crisis in a city's life as an opportunity for lawlessness, looting, gambling and general disorder. Doubtless many of these heedless persons would be insulted if their patriotism were questioned. Yet I cannot but feel that their actions under these feverish conditions are constructively traitorous and that quick and decisive justice should be meted out to them.

It is time for all good men and lovers of our city, State and country to stand staunchly, and, if necessary, sacrificially for law and order. Moreover, this should be done firmly, but at the same time in such a way as not to stir needless passion. One of the first duties of citizenship just now is to speak soberly, to avoid rancor, and to do everything possible to bring our city back to a normal state of feeling. For myself, also, I do not hesitate to say that praying people should supplicate the Heavenly Father that this tumult may be stilled and the real will of God may be done.

THE REV. DR. GABRIEL REID MAGUIRE, pastor of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church:

A committee of prominent business men and clergy could settle the present disorderly situation immediately if they could appear before the police strikers and point out how they are being misled and misguided by American Federation of Labor agitators.

I believe that both Governor Coolidge and Police Commissioner Curtis are in the right in this present labor question. The outrages of the past two nights have been the work of thugs and roughs from outside of this city, scores of whom I saw riding the beams of Boston-bound freight trains on their way to this city the first of the week.

BISHOP WILLIAM LAWENCE, head of the Episcopal Church in Massachusetts:

The people of Boston, women and children as well as men, depend upon the transportation, telephone and shops. I cannot think that the members of labor unions will put the whole city to inconvenience and suffering by a general strike.

INSURANCE MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED

Dorchester Agent Relieved of $300 in Receipts, $50 Cash, Watch and Chain

Joseph Lentini, twenty-three, of No. 187 Norwell street, Dorchester, agent for the Metropolitan Insurance company, No. 535 Broadway, South Boston, was held up and robbed of a handbag containing receipts amounting to $300, $50 in cash, and a gold watch and chain. The holdup occurred in the South End, between Northampton and Thornton streets, while he was on his way to work.

A man described as being about five feet seven inches tall and about twenty-two years of age approached him for a cigarette. While searching his pockets for the package the man, probably hiding in doorways, came up from behind. They found his hands in back of him and demanded his cash, threatening to use a blackjack if he resisted.

A search was made of his pockets and $50 was taken. Then they took the handbag and disappeared.

LEATHER DISTRICT TO HAVE SPECIAL GUARDS

Thomas F. Anderson, secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, termed the looting and property destruction of Tuesday night "the most disgraceful episode in the history of any American community," at a luncheon meeting of the organization at the Boston Shoe Trades Club for the purpose of discussing plans for protecting the shoe and leather industry.

The association sent out circulars to all its members, asking that they individually take measures for protecting their property, including the appointment of employes as special officers. A special protective committee of members of the organization may be formed.

POLICE CONDEMNED BY WOOL MERCHANTS

At a special meeting of the executive committee of the Boston Wool Trade Association, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"Resolved, That the Boston Wool Trade Association hereby expresses its approval of the decision of Police Commissioner Curtis in regard to the police officers' union of the city of Boston joining the American Federation of Labor, endorses the discretion of their posts of duty by the police officers, and tenders its most hearty support to the commissioner and Mayor Peters in the enforcement of law and order.

"SAMUEL G. ADAMS,
"President."

OFFER $1,000 FOR SLAYER OF SHEAR AND SWEETHEART

By Universal Service.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 11.—A reward of $1,000 is offered by the Erie County authorities for information that will lead to the arrest of the murderer of Norman W. Shear and his sweetheart, Mary Elizabeth Messner, Sunday night in "Lover's Lane," Tonawanda.

The Buffalo police were asked to aid in the search, as Sheriff Bradley admits that his men have made no progress toward a solution of the mystery.

CANNOT SERVE TWO MASTERS, SAYS THOMAS

Police Strike Movement Likely to Spread, Asserts Colorado Senator

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Boston's strike troubles are the direct result of the affiliation of policemen with organized labor, Senator Thomas of Colorado asserted in the Senate. He coupled this statement with the warning that similar troubles are likely to occur wherever members of the police force are permitted to form unions under the sanction of the American Federation of Labor.

DOUBLE ALLEGIANCE.

Senator Thomas read newspaper reports of the rioting in Boston and said:

"I do not care to occupy the time of the Senate with reading the remainder of the article. It refers to th shooting of three men and the stabbing of one and gives the immediate cause of the strike as the refusal of Commissioner Curtis to sanction the policemen's union because of its affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, the men voting 1,134 to 2 to strike.

"To me that is the logical consequence of the affiliation of the officers of the law with private labor or any other sort of organization. It is an inescapable fact that when the officers of the government assume obligations or enter into covenants which may interfere or conflict with the discharge of their duty, they at once become subject to a double allegiance, the fruit of which is inevitable in this imperfect world.

"The Master said centuries ago that no man could serve two masters, no more than he could successfully do so or ever will successfully do so. The conflict of interests and obligations is absolutely irreconcilable, and I may say that this is a step long to be taken to the so-called organization of the police forces of America. The broad efforts are made to unionize the army and if it is legitimate to unionize the police it is equally legitimate to unionize the soldiers of the republic.

BUT THE BEGINNING.

"I have no reason for maintaining that Boston will be the only victim of these disturbances. This is but the beginning and just as surely as the movement is permitted to grow just as surely will there be repetitions of it in every city in the country."

Senator Thomas spoke of the union which has been formed by the members of the Washington police force and declared an effort should be made to prevent the continuance of it. He said:

"The time will come when women in this city will be unsafe. When it will be unsafe for anyone to be on the streets. The time will come when its stores will be looted, when its citizens will be killed in cold blood and robbed of the money and valuables of the middle class will have to shoulder the burden of the police duties in the police and patrol the streets for the protection of his property and his family."

ROXBURY'S VIGILANTES GUARD BUSINESS SECTION

The Roxbury vigilants committee, composed of the business men and employes of Roxbury, patrolled the streets in the vicinity of the elevated street elevated station to discourage any repetition of lawlessness. The men were sworn in by Deputy Superintendent Parry Shilling at the police station, and were clothed, equipped with badges and revolvers.

The committee was formed at a meeting held in the People's National Bank building, with Frank A. Dudley as chairman and the following officers were elected: Secretary, George Hall, of the Roxbury store, and George Melhado.

MINE WORKERS DEMAND INQUIRY ON KILLING

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11.—A Federal and State investigation of the killing at Breckinridge, Pa., of a woman organizer of the United Mine Workers of America, a Hungarian miner and the wounding of three others was demanded at the convention today by the United Mine Workers' convention of District No. 6. The convention also voted to send copies of the resolution as adopted to President Wilson and Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania.

It was learned that the committee on resolutions will report on the recommendations of President John L. Lewis. They included a six-hour day, five-day week, increased wages and a strike November 1 if the demands are not met.

10 Governors Invited

Springfield, Sept. 11.—Governors of ten Eastern States will be guests of honor at the dedication of the State building, to be held here next Thursday, in connection with the Eastern States Exposition.

Troops Have Plenty of Cartridges; No Blanks Issued

All the infantry regiments of the State Guard now on duty in the streets of Boston are armed with .45-calibre Springfield rifles and have an abundance of ammunition. No blank cartridges have been issued.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE POLICE STRIKE

Wearing overseas uniforms and metal trench hats, Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne and several of the officers of headquarters company, 101st Field Artillery, are keeping to safeguard the city. When they volunteered they were provided with police horses and did mounted service in maintaining order during the night.

* * *

Before the South Boston rioting started Bayard Tuckerman, sportsman and amateur horseman, and a companion, named Chrisie, both volunteer police officers, were attacked by the mob as they left Station 6. They were surrounded by scores of gangsters who felled and kicked them. Regaining their feet Tuckerman and his companion forced passages through the crowd to the nearest subway station.

* * *

Among the volunteer police on duty today is Leon H. Davis, crack shot of the B. A. A. rifle club. Mr. Davis is a Boston agent, with offices in the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He has been captain of the gun club for several years and is one of the most noted shots of the United States. He is also a crack revolver shot. Davis was assigned to duty at Station 5. "A very good man to let alone in a mixup," say Davis' friends, who have seen him in action.

* * *

Two companies of regulars from the harbor forts debarked at Long Wharf early today. Immediately on their arrival rumors spread that the regulars were on the job, but investigation left the officers commanding the companies to give out information that they were on hand to guard Federal property.

* * *

Members of the Southboro company, State Guard, made a fine record when in answer to a riot call from police headquarters they armed and marched from the South Armory on Irvington street, to Pemberton square in thirty minutes. The citizens were dispersed before the arrival of the Guardsmen.

Linemen of the organized electrical workers will follow the wishes of organized labor, and refuse to take work if threatened general strike in sympathy with the policemen. This was announced today by E. M. McEachern, president of Local No. 104, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, who said that delegates representing this union who will attend the C. L. U. conference tonight had been so instructed.

* * *

Brigadier-Generals Charles H. cole and John H. Sherburne, both on the Mills street, Water street and Fosteffice square detachment in the absence of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the 26th Division, are made his neighbors. Both the former Yankee Division men paid their respects to General Parker.

* * *

Colonel David D. Porter, of Washington, head of marine corps recruiting, coming to Boston from the capital on the 10:30 train last night, was stopped when he arrived in Scollay square. The stones were evidently not meant for him, but appeared to be aimed at the volunteer police. Colonel Porter is a grandson of Admiral Porter.

* * *

Sergeant James Haley, in charge of the State guard detail on the Dover and Washington streets, arrested an overseas veteran wearing the uniform of a Southern regiment. Sergeant Haley asserts that the lieutenant demanded that he break up the game when he saw it in session at the entrance of Fay Hall. The guardsmen with fixed bayonets assisted Sergeant Haley in making the arrest.

* * *

An unruly crowd, numbering almost a hundred, jeered a State Guard escort detachment and a squad of guardsmen when they attempted to crash past pickets to enter the Washington street police station. Dover and Washington streets during the noon hour were guarded after the men relieved from duty were ordered in the Walton establishment for their dinner. Officers and enlisted men were rushed from Dover street to break up the gathering.

* * *

Where are those Salvation Army doughnuts and the guardsmen on duty in Scollay Square were thinking of them wistfully today. It developed that some of the sentries in that district had been on duty all night without anything to eat since 5 p. m. They are complaining, but admitted hunger.

* * *

About 100 volunteers were added today to the police force, bringing the total up to 950. The men included ex-service men, merchants and others. They were quickly assigned to stations. It was said three of the men were sons of Lawrence Minot, well known in social and political circles of this city. Several negroes were among the volunteers, but if they are used they will be placed in the colored section.

VIGILANTES AID IN QUELLING DISORDER

Fifty Ex-Service Men Sworn in as Volunteers in West Roxbury

Fifty ex-service men and former members of the State Guard were sworn in as special officers for the West Roxbury district by Co. one, Clinton Bowley of Station 17. Captain Bowley sent them out in pairs to patrol the West Roxbury and Dermontown districts. Captain Bowley appointed as many more special officers at the Roslindale Municipal Building and after 9 o'clock seventy-five men of the State Guard reported for duty. In all more than 200 men were available there about the district.

Captain Joseph H. Ryan of Station 17, Jamaica Plain, was aided by the 11th Separate Infantry (Independent) company, armed with rifles, in command of Captain W. A. Hall, and a detachment from Company M of the 8th Regiment. The volunteers worked in pairs and were taken to their routes in automobiles.

The Roxbury Crossing district was patrolled by 125 men of Company G, 11th Regiment, State Guard, and 12 volunteers sworn in by Captain Jeremiah Sullivan of Station 10.

Company B of Clinton, Company D of Lowell and a detachment from Southboro and Clinton, all from the 11th Regiment, State Guard, took charge at Station 5, Dudley street, covering Dudley street, Washington to Upham's Corner, Blue Hill avenue from Dudley corner to Columbia road and Warren street from Dudley street to Blue Hill avenue. The Roxbury vigilante committee patrolled the business district.

At Station 11, Brighton, the State Guard and the vigilantes joined forces to cover the district.

POSTOFFICE BARRICADED FIRST TIME SINCE 1872

For the first time since the big Boston fire in 1872, the heavy steel doors at the Milk street, Water street and Postoffice square entrances to the Federal building were closed at the suggestion of United States Marshal Mitchell, upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility for the United States government property in this district.

Two doors were open at the postoffice building after dark, one at the corner of Devonshire and Water streets and the other at Devonshire and Milk streets, and these were carefully guarded.

NORTH ADAMS POLICE PLAN JOINING A. F. L.

North Adams, Sept. 11.—Members of the local police department are expected to soon take a vote on becoming affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

All patrolmen joined in regard to union affiliation appears to be decided, and the success of the vote is being awaited with interest.

Sympathetic Strike Held by Court to Be Illegal

In October, 1906, in the case of Pickett v. Walsh, the Supreme Court of Massachusetts decided that a sympathetic strike is illegal. Judge Loring, w., wrote the opinion of the court, said:

"Such a strike is not a justifiable interference with the rights of the plaintiffs to pursue their calling as they think best. In our opinion, organized labor's right of coercion and compulsion is limited to strikes against persons with whom the organization has a trade dispute; or, to put it in another way, we are of opinion that a strike against A, with whom the strikers have no trade dispute, to compel A to force B to yield to the strikers' demands, is an unjustifiable interference with the right of A to pursue his calling as he thinks best."

FORTY-FOUR ARE ARRESTED IN RAID ON GAMBLERS ON COMMON

LEADERS SEEK TO PREVENT GENERAL WALKOUT

men and other citizens were bending every effort to avert a general strike following a meeting of the Central Labor Union tonight.

The victim of a shooting on Tremont street, following the roundup on the Common, was later identified as Raymond Barnes, formerly of Springfield and Somerville, whose address was given as No. 110 Austin street, Cambridge.

Shortly after the shooting, troops were poured into Scollay square and sentinels stationed every few yards, with the intention of preventing any such occurrences as took place these yesterday. Historic old Faneuil Hall was also being equipped to feed and shelter troops, in addition to the various armories in the city.

According to eye-witnesses, Barnes, who is a merchant seaman, started an argument with a States Guardsman near the corner of Avery and Tremont streets and assaulted him. In the midst of the melee a volunteer policeman is said to have run up and shot the sailor, who was removed to the Relief Station. Fifteen minutes after arrival at the hospital the man died.

The rounding on the Common was the most spectacular event which has taken place in Boston in many years, and resembled a scene from the old Wild West. About 11 o'clock word was received at the Lagrange street police station by Lieutenant Dooley of F Company, 12th Regiment, that a big dice game was in progress on the Common in front of the K. of C. hut.

Lieutenant Dooley immediately doubled his men up Tremont street to the Common, and the soldiers surrounded the gamblers on four sides, taking them at a disadvantage. The forty-four dice players were commanded to put their hands up, and compiled after hurried glances at the fixed bayonets of the guardsmen.

The officers, with drawn revolvers, then forced back the crowd and the troops, forming a hollow square, paraded their prisoners, with arms still elevated, down the Mall to the Lagrange street station.

NO SYMPATHY FOR GAMBLERS.

While the arrests were being made the large crowd which had gathered plainly showed their lack of sympathy for the gamblers. They cheered and applauded the soldiers as though witnessing a theatrical performance, and cries of "Don't arrest them, shoot them," were heard. The prisoners ranged from boys about fourteen to old men, but were largely composed of youths between twenty-one and thirty.

After a conference between the officers and officials at the police station the prisoners, with their hands reaching into the air, were escorted between double files of soldiers to police headquarters on Berkeley street.

In the meantime it was stated that General Parker was called into conference with the Mayor. Later it was announced that a conference of the Mayor's committee of thirty-four had been called at the Mayor's office.

POLES PLEDGE AID TO MAYOR.

Officers of the Boston Polish Citizens' Committee, with headquarters at No. 220 Hanover street, informed the Mayor that the support of this organization had been pledged to him during the crisis.

The members of the Boston Elevated Carmen's Union have taken no action relative to a sympathetic strike, according to a statement issued by James H. Vahey, counsel for the carmen, today. As further proof of this fact, Mr. Vahey added that the officials of the Carmen's Union were in Chicago attending a conference.

SEEK A. F. OF L. CHARTER.

That the striking policemen will have the support of the Boston Protective Department, the organization formed by the insurance companies, in the event of a sympathetic strike, became known today, by the filing of a petition by the entire membership of the organization, numbering about 99 men, for a charter from the A. F. of L.

Leaders of the movement stated today that the men wish to become organized in order to lend sympathetic aid to the striking policemen. The movement was hastened, according to the men, by the discharge today of James Moffit, a member of the Protective Department, who was discharged by Captain Samuel McDonald of the Appleton street station of the organization, with the only explanation that it was "For good of the service." According to the other members of the department, Moffit's discharge is suspected of being brought about for union activity.

Recruits are being added to the ranks of the striking policemen, according to the statement of the men out on strike. Today it was reported that five of the loyal men from Station 14, Brighton, had joined, as well as two from Station 19, Mattapan, and one from 13, Charlestown.

Certain progressive leaders of organized labor were today determined to prevent a general strike decision in sympathy with the police at the Central Labor Union meeting tonight. These clear-thinking leaders, realizing that public opinion is aroused, and that the cause of organized labor is on trial, were bending every effort to prevent a general strike, and to keep the strong control and precipitating a general strike.

It was understood, further, that this struggle would be confined entirely to the meeting, and would not be allowed to spread through the various labor organizations of the city.

At the same time, it was announced at police headquarters that Samuel D. Parker, commanding the State troops, that the entire force of about 4,000 men were ready for duty. General Parker, who established his headquarters in the office of Police Commissioner Curtis, said that the 14th Regiment from the Cape and the 30th from Western Massachusetts are on their way to this city.

FIREMEN IN SYMPATHY.

Although it is understood that a number of labor organizations, in the event of controversy, voted to strike out of loyalty to the policemen's union, it was stated that the American Federation of Labor officials have no authority to call a general walkout.

Further, a strike vote must be taken by each organization, with a majority vote deciding.

Indications that the firemen of the city were in favor of a sympathetic strike were seen when various members of the department began to remove their clothing and personal effects from the fire houses.

Mayor Peters in a statement today declared that he would not take the initiative in negotiating with the striking policemen, and that neither would he fill their places with permanent patrolmen.

General Parker said that an investigation was being made of the shootings in South Boston, by which two men were killed and several persons, including women, seriously injured. Complete reports, he declared, were being made.

"BLOOD ON MAYOR," SAYS McINNES

President John F. McInnes of the policemen's union said: "Last night's blood is on the head of Mayor Peters."

He refused to comment on the fact that a number of striking patrolmen were mixed up in the rioting, one of them being fatally shot.

Mayor Peters referred to the casualties of the night's rioting as "deplorable." He said he understood that A. F. of L. leaders would be in the city today, but that he had no appointment to meet them. He was ready at all times, he added, to discuss the strike with anybody who desired to see him.

Other city officials declared that the opposition to allowing patrolmen to join the American Federation of Labor was as strong as ever, and that there would be no settlement on that basis.

MOB IN ANGRY MOOD.

The South Boston shooting put a sudden end to lawlessness which for a time exceeded that of the previous night. For hours the State Guardsmen had been the butt of striking patrolmen's jokes and other missiles, hurled by a mob numbering several thousand.

So thoroughly had the mob the previous night completed its self-appointed task of smashing the store windows along Broadway that there was little for it to do at this direction, and it gave itself up to attacks on the guardsmen.

Retaliating to the onslaught of bricks and other things thrown at them, only by slowly and steadily pressing the throng of thousands gathered on Broadway at E street slowly back in the direction of Boston proper, the guardsmen stood the attacks of the mob without faltering. Under command of Captain Charles E. Hadley of C Company, 10th Regiment, a small squad of that company acting as skirmishers, pushed the crowd back to C street, where the fatal volleys were fired.

The mob had been in an angry mood since the guardsmen first appeared. They stoned and beat three volunteers who went on patrol duty, and who were finally rescued by the military.

Msgr. George A. Patterson, rector of St. Vincent's Church, in addition to the crowd at this time, pleaded with the men to be orderly. But his efforts were futile, for almost afterward an organized gang, the members of which were armed with revolvers, took the head of the mob and began smashing such few windows as had escaped them the night previous.

While the confusion was at its height members of the mob began firing revolvers at the skirmish line of guardsmen from a nearby building.

SCREAMS OF TERROR.

Standing in front of his men, with his other officers, Captain Hadley gave the order:

"Ready—aim!"

The men in the skirmish line, extending entirely across the street from curbstone to curbstone raised their rifles and shotguns and leveled them at the mob.

Then someone shouted "Fire."

The skirmish line fired three volleys, the first two over the heads of the crowd, but the third somewhat lower. Five of those in the front ranks of the crowd sank to the pavement, and the rest of the mob scattered wildly, screaming in terror.

Captain Hadley and his men stated afterwards that they did not give the command to fire. It was his intention, he explained, to try and frighten the mob by the same tactics he had successfully used earlier in the evening.

It was claimed that some member of the crowd had cried "Fire," and that the guardsmen had mistaken it for a command from their officer.

Four of those lying stretched on the street were taken into the drug store of K. Hilloskas, No. 224 Broadway.

Only a few minutes before members of the mob had broken the windows of this store.

THREE GIRLS WOUNDED.

First aid treatment was given the wounded and emergency calls were sent for ambulances. The fifth man who fell got up and walked away. Three of those later treated for bullet wounds were girls.

Nine of the wounded were taken to the Carney Hospital and two were hurried to the City Hospital.

Robert Sheehan, sixteen, of No. 215 L street, was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Carney Hospital.

Helen Kelley, sixteen, of No. 157 Gold street, suffering from a wound in the head; Walter Karpycz, thirty-six, of No. 252 Third street, suffering from gunshot wounds, and Vincent Plansky, twenty-three, of No. 286 Bowen street, a well known ball player, who sustained gunshot wounds, were treated as hospital patients.

The following went to the hospital for treatment as outpatients: Mary Sartory, sixteen, of No. 239 Third street; Bertrada Sullivan, sixteen, of No. 525 Seventh street; John Cosgrove, of No. 2 Lawrence street; Charles Shea, seventeen, of No. 201 C street; Joseph Golden, seventeen, of No. 35 Old Harbor street.

FIND CARR IS DEAD.

When the City Hospital ambulances reached that institution Dr. Ittridge announced Anthony Carr dead.

John F. Flaherty, thirty-eight, of No. 325 Second street was held for treatment for a compound fracture of the left femur, caused by buckshot.

The three wounded girls told the hospital authorities that they had been to the theatres and were on their way home, when they ran into the bullets from the skirmish line.

Following the closing of the night in South Boston.

Rioting more brazen than that which marked Tuesday night gave the military plenty to confend with in their first night on patrol duty since Boston's police force. Although no rioting was free from the wholesale pillaging which had marked the previous evening, it vented its wrath freely by breaking plate glass windows and maintained an ugly mood towards the guardsmen.

CHINAMAN BEATEN.

Order was almost completely restored in Roxbury, West Roxbury, Brighton and Jamaica Plain by the volunteer police and the State Guard. At the West Roxbury station 200 men were on duty, instead of the 63 patrolmen who usually police the district. The number included State Guardsmen and platoons of ex-service men, formed under the auspices of the West Roxbury Citizens' Association.

In Jamaica Plain a little excitement was afforded by a crowd of youthful thugs, who beat Yee Wah, a Green street laundryman, into insensibility, and robbed him of $5. They escaped. Their victim is at the City Hospital. Captain Joseph Harriman of the Jamaica Plain station is in the Faulkner Hospital suffering from a flesh wound accidentally inflicted while he was demonstrating a rifle.

At Roxbury Crossing auto thieves got busy in the rear of apartment houses on Huntington avenue. They were detected, and the machines taken away. The would-be thieves escaped only after an exciting chase by auto owners.

HOODLUMS SCATTERED.

At Dudley street the situation was in pleasant contrast to that of Tuesday night. State Guards and volunteers covered the district thoroughly, and roving bands of hoodlums were broken up before they could start mischief.

Despite unofficial figures that upwards of 1,000 volunteer police had been enrolled during the last two weeks, figures received today show an actual enrollment of 825 volunteers who have been certified and assigned to various stations throughout the city. Of this number 500 were registered yesterday. This leaves a difference of 325 men who had previously enrolled.

About fifty or sixty volunteers reported today at the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. The arrival of the State Guardsmen in the city, it is reported, has left an impression that the city will be sufficiently guarded from now on, and it is consequence the number of volunteers reporting today has been greatly reduced.

FOUR COURT CASES.

Charged with breaking and entering the grocery store of Constantine Zanakis at First and L streets, City Point, were held in $500 each for the Grand Jury. The boys are Vincent Conlon of 31 street, John V. Cribb of East Third street and John J. Barry of East Third street.

They were arrested by Sergeants Ramsay and Lordi's of station 12 about 1 a. m. Through their counsel, ex-Representative Daniel J. Casey, they waived examination.

Superintendent M. H. Crowley

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley in the present crisis has shown himself a model officer of the law.

When a crap game was discovered in progress in the street within a hundred yards of police headquarters and surrounded by a crowd of several hundred, he broke through the throng and seized one of the players.

The mob closed in on the superintendent, but, undaunted, he dragged his prisoner toward Pemberton square and held the angry crowd in check by pulling his gun.

THIEVES GET $110 F OM RESTAURANT CASHIER

Three youthful bandits made a raid on the Gerbico restaurant at the corner of Columbus avenue and Berkeley street and robbed the cashier, Morris Rashesky, of about $110.

While one of the men was filling the cash register of its contents the others kept the patrons of the restaurant from coming to the assistance of the cashier. Then they ran down Isabella street and disappeared into a basement. Soon clothes men and a sergeant from Station 4 later searched the building but could find no trace of the thieves.

MANCHESTER MAYOR DENOUNCES "PAVING RING"

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 11.—Mayor Verrette disapproves the method of Director of Public Works Samuel J. Lord in giving the city new streets. In a curt statement to the director he states that he will not approve bills for material where an equally good product can be obtained by competitive bidding for less money.

In a statement to the public the Mayor said there is a "paving ring which has the city in its grasp."

"Of every publication," he says, "standing for selfish interests and not for the good of the city are responsible for this unpleasant situ-

STRIKER IS SHOT AFTER ALLEGED HOLDUP OF VOLUNTEERS

OFFICERS' GUNS ARE TAKEN

Men Doing Police Duty Are Also Relieved of Their Clubs and Badges

Richard Reemts, thirty-six, striking patrolman of the Roxbury Crossing police station, was shot and seriously wounded early today while fleeing from Sergeant McDonald of the East Dedham street station, according to the police. Reemts and Arthur, D. Shay, another striking policeman, it is charged, held up and took clubs, guns and badges from two volunteer policemen.

Reemts was shot by Abraham Karp of No. 139 Columbus avenue, an automobile accessory dealer, who, seeing him running, in his direction and fearing attack, fired at him.

The bullet entered Reemts abdomen and he fell to the street. He was taken to the Commonwealth Armory in the State Guard ambulance, after which he was taken to the City Hospital.

The trouble started when Reemts and Shay drove down Columbus avenue to Hackmatack street in an automobile. They inquired the way to Ambrosia of volunteer policemen John Reid, twenty-four, of No. 65 Oak avenue, Belmont, and Thomas H. Gammoch, twenty-three, of No. 9 Linden street, Cambridge. Words followed, after which, it is alleged, that the two policemen jumped out of the machine and attacked the two volunteers, taking guns, clubs and badges from them.

Sergeant John D. McDonald of the East Dedham street station appeared on the scene and the men fled. Reemts ran down Columbus avenue to where he was shot. Shay was taken to the East Dedham street police station, where he was charged with robbery.

Karp was later arrested by Sergeant McDonald on a technical charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

WANTS HARVARD TO INVESTIGATE STRIKE

An investigation of the policemen's strike and the causes leading up to it by a committee of Harvard professors appointed by President A. Lawrence Lowell, is urged upon the latter by the Harvard Liberal Club, Demetrios Lloyd, secretary.

"As you have already taken action in this crisis, action which of itself has every effect known to force to loosen the bronds between labor and the university, and revive the age-long conflict of 'Town and Gown,' we therefore urge that the university should take further action of a more constructive kind," the letter reads.

"We therefore urge upon you that a committee of university professors from the economics and social sciences departments be immediately appointed to make a thorough and impartial investigation of the whole problem and to make recommendations for the solution of the existing difficulties which have led to the present deplorable crisis."

FLEEING THIEF IS CAUGHT BY MOTORMAN

One Greater Boston man captured a thief who had looted a clothing store on Kneeland street. He is Warren F. Emerson, No. 5 Tufts avenue, Medford, a motorman on the Eastern Massachusetts street railway.

Emerson was waiting at a Kneeland street employment office to apply for a job for a friend when he saw a group of young men running down the street, pursued by a policeman and others.

When the crowd neared the employment office Emerson seized the third of the men and two officers in plain clothes arrived. Meanwhile the rest of the gang tried to pummel Emerson, but he escaped with slight bruises.

Colonel Gaston's Son on Police Duty at Station 16

Among the men who are doing such good work on the volunteer citizens' police force is John Gaston, son of William A. Gaston, lawyer, and chairman of the board of directors of the National Shawmut Bank.

Young Gaston, who has only recently returned to Harvard undergraduate life from the A. E. F., is assigned to Station 16.

He is a big upstanding youngster, eager and able to do his duty.

Soon after the opening of the war he enlisted in the marines, and earned his promotion to a lieutenancy from the ranks by his good work in France.

RIOTERS ON BOSTON COMMON BEING PUT UNDER ARREST

State Guardsmen shown putting men under arrest after they had subdued the rioting following the breaking up of crap games on Boston Common this morning.

GUARD ORDERED TO SHOOT DOWN LOOTERS

Looters of government property will be shot on sight, orders to this effect having been given the armed soldiers and sailors guarding U. S. buildings.

The naval guard on duty is from the navy yard and the details of soldiers are from the forts along Boston harbor.

Military guards have been posted at the old base hospital No. 10, Parker Hill Hospital. The army supply base is also guarded by soldiers and sailors, detachments from each of the branches guarding the property under its special jurisdiction.

All but two of the entrances to the Federal building were barred, the only doors left open being those at the corner of Devonshire and Milk, and Devonshire and Water streets, both of which were carefully guarded.

The great steel doors, with which the entrances opening on the stairs leading to the upper floors of the building are fitted, were pulled tight and locked. These doors are two inches thick and were installed many years ago following the big Boston fire which threatened to destroy the building.

Army officers said that soldiers and sailors caught violating the laws of the city or State would be severely dealt with. The violators, however, must be arrested by the civil authorities, for the military and naval officials have not as yet received official orders from Washington to send out military or naval police to round up enlisted men who have violated the city laws.

SOUTH BOSTON MEETING AT MUNICIPAL BUILDING

Joseph A. Maynard, president of the South Boston Trust Company, today stated that the meeting called by former Lieutenant-Governor Edward P. Barry for the formation of a vigilance committee, was held at the Municipal Building instead of in the rooms of the South Boston Trust Company, as inadvertently reported in yesterday's American.

WARTIME GATES ALONG WATERFRONT AGAIN SHUT

Gates were closed on all the principal wharves along the waterfront with watchmen behind them under instructions to admit no persons without particular business there.

These gates are the same that constituted a barricade during the war when a barred zone prevailed and individuals without passes were not permitted to enter wharf property.

WORKERS VOTE TO AID NORTH ADAMS STRIKERS

North Adams, Sept. 11.—Members of the Woolen and Worsted Textile Workers' Union have voted to endorse the strike of cotton textile workers employed at the Windsor Print Works and to lend financial assistance.

To further aid the strikers Organizer Joseph B. White of Cohoes, N. Y., will come to the city.

City Clergymen Call for Law and Order

Prominent clergymen of Boston today appealed to true citizens to maintain their loyalty to law and order during the present crisis. Speedy justice for thugs and looters is advised, and labor unions are urged not to place the city in the throes of a general strike. The statements follow:

BISHOP EDWIN H. HUGHES of the New England diocese of the Methodist Church:

In reference to the police strike I am perfectly clear on several points.

While I have always and everywhere stood for the principle of union labor, and have, whenever necessary, accepted a penalty for so standing, I am convinced that the relation of our policemen to public order is officially such as to render their membership in labor unions highly inadvisable.

That they should be allowed to have their own organization goes without question, and that larger heed should be given to some of their demands is to me clear; but I do not believe that they should belong either to capitalistic clubs or to labor unions. Further, the present period of nervous tension would be the last reason for such affiliations, even if we allowed that it is ever proper.

I cannot at all appreciate the standpoint of the men who seize upon a crisis in a city's life as an opportunity for lawlessness, looting, gambling and general disorder. Doubtless many of these heedless persons would be insulted if their patriotism were questioned. Yet I cannot but feel that their actions under these feverish conditions are constructively traitorous and that quick and decisive justice should be meted out to them.

It is time for all good men and lovers of our city, State and country to stand staunchly, and, if necessary, sacrificially for law and order. Moreover, this should be done firmly, but at the same time in such a way as not to stir needless passion. One of the first duties of citizenship just now is to speak soberly, to avoid rancor, and to do everything possible to bring our city back to a normal state of feeling. For myself, also, I do not hesitate to say that praying people should supplicate the Heavenly Father that this tumult may be stilled and the real will of God may be done.

THE REV. DR. GABRIEL REID MAGUIRE, pastor of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church:

A committee of prominent business men and clergy could settle the present disorderly situation immediately if they could appear before the police strikers and point out how they are being misled and misguided by American Federation of Labor agitators.

I believe that both Governor Coolidge and Police Commissioner Curtis are in the right in this present labor question. The outrages of the past two nights have been the work of thugs and roughs from outside of this city, scores of whom I saw riding the beams of Boston-bound freight trains on their way to this city the first of the week.

BISHOP WILLIAM LAWENCE, head of the Episcopal Church in Massachusetts:

The people of Boston, women and children as well as men, depend upon the transportation, telephone and shops. I cannot think that the members of labor unions will put the whole city to inconvenience and suffering by a general strike.

INSURANCE MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED

Dorchester Agent Relieved of $300 in Receipts, $50 Cash, Watch and Chain

Joseph Lentine, twenty-three, of No. 197 Maxwell street, Dorchester, agent for the Metropolitan Insurance Company, No. 535 Broadway, South Boston, was held up and robbed of a handbag containing receipts amounting to $300, $50 in cash, and a gold watch and chain. The holdup occurred in the South End, between Northampton and Thorndyke streets, while he was on his way to work.

A man described as being about five feet seven inches tall and about twenty-two years of age approached him for a cigarette. While searching his pockets for the package five men, probably hiding in doorways, came up from behind. They bound his hands in back of him and demanded his cash, threatening to use a blackjack if he refused.

A search was made of his pockets and $50 was taken. Then they took the handbag and disappeared.

LEATHER DISTRICT TO HAVE SPECIAL GUARDS

Thomas F. Anderson, secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, termed the looting and property destruction of Tuesday night "the most disgraceful episode in the history of any American community."

At a luncheon meeting of the organization at the Boston Shoe Trades Club for the purpose of discussing plans for protecting the shoe and leather industry.

The association sent out circulars to all its members asking that they individually take measures for protecting their property, including the appointment of employes as special officers. A special protective committee of members of the organization may be formed.

POLICE CONDEMNED BY WOOL MERCHANTS

At a special meeting of the executive committee of the Boston Wool Trade Association, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"Resolved, That the Boston Wool Trade Association hereby expresses its approval of the decision of Police Commissioner Curtis in regard to the police officers' union of the city of Boston joining the American Federation of Labor, condemns the desertion of their posts of duty by police officers, and tenders its most hearty support to the commissioner and Mayor Peters in the enforcement of law and order.

"SAMUEL G. ADAMS, President."

OFFER $1,000 FOR SLAYER OF SHEAR AND SWEETHEART

By Universal Service.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 11.—A reward of $1,000 is offered by the Erie County authorities for information that will lead to the arrest of the murderer of Norman W. Shear and his sweetheart, Mary Elizabeth Messner, Saturday night in "Lover's Lane," Tonawanda.

The Buffalo police were asked to aid in the search as Sheriff Bradley admits that his men have made no progress toward a solution of the mystery.

CANNOT SERVE TWO MASTERS, SAYS THOMAS

Police Strike Movement Likely to Spread, Asserts Colorado Senator

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Boston's strike troubles are the direct result of the affiliation of policemen with organized labor, Senator Thomas of Colorado asserted in the Senate. He coupled this statement with the warning that similar troubles are likely to occur wherever members of the police force are permitted to form unions under the sanction of the American Federation of Labor.

DOUBLE ALLEGIANCE.

Senator Thomas read newspaper reports of the rioting in Boston and said:

"I do not care to occupy the time of the Senate with reading the remainder of these articles. It refers to shooting of three men and the stabbing of one and gives the immediate cause of the strike as the refusal of Commissioner Curtis to sanction the policemen's union because of its affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, the men voting 1,134 to 2 to strike.

"To me that is the logical consequence of the affiliation of the officers of the law with private labor or any other sort of organization. It is an inescapable fact that when the officers of the government assume obligations or enter into covenants which may interfere or conflict with the discharge of their duty, they at once become subject to a double allegiance, the fruit of which is inevitable in this imperfect world.

"Since the Master said centuries ago that no man could serve two masters, no man ever has successfully done so or ever will successfully do so. The conflict of interests and obligations is absolutely irreconcilable, and it is out of that that a war is which will not end with the so-called organization of the police forces of America. Already efforts are being made to unionize the army and it is a significant fact that the police force is equally legitimate to unionize the soldiers of the republic.

BUT THE BEGINNING.

"I have no reason for imagining that Boston will be the only victim of these disturbances. This is but the beginning and just as surely as the movement is permitted to grow just as surely will there be repetitions of it in every city in the country."

Senator Thomas spoke of the union which has been formed by the members of the Washington police force and declared an effort should be made to prevent the continuance of it.

He said:

"This evil will come when women in this city will be unsafe. When it will be unsafe for women to walk on the streets of the nation's capital, when its stores will be looted, when its property will be shot down, and when the average man belonging to the middle class will be afraid to call for help and take up the baton of the police and patrol the streets for the protection of his property and his family."

ROXBURY'S VIGILANTES GUARD BUSINESS SECTION

The Roxbury vigilants, composed of several hundred business men and employes of Roxbury, patrolled the business section of the Dudley street elevated station to discourage any repetition of lawlessness. Fifty men were on duty at the Dudley street police station by Captain Dewing, all armed and clad in police clothes, equipped with badges and revolvers.

The committee was formed at a meeting held in the Peoples National bank of Roxbury, with Frank Bond as chairman and the following officers were elected: Secretary, George Carey; treasurer, Joseph Bond, Peoples National Bank; deputies, Percy Davis, manager of Houghton & Dutton's Roxbury store, and George Mellhado.

MINE WORKERS DEMAND INQUIRY ON KILLING

Sympathetic Strike Held by Court to Be Illegal

In October, 1906, in the case of Pickett v. Walsh, the Supreme Court of Massachusetts decided that a sympathetic strike is illegal.

Judge Loring, who wrote the opinion of the court, said:

"Such a strike is not a justifiable interference with the rights of the plaintiffs to pursue their calling as they think best. In our opinion, organized labor's right of coercion and compulsion is limited to strikes against persons with whom the organization has a trade dispute; or, to put it in another way, we are of opinion that a strike against A, with whom the strikers have no trade dispute, to compel A to force B to yield to the strikers' demands, is an unjustifiable interference with the right of A to pursue his calling as he thinks best."

WILSON SEES TROUBLE FOR OPPONENTS

Says in Montana That People Would Resent Rejection of Treaty

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Billings, Mont., Sept. 11.—Pinning into his argument that the treaty of peace is all that will prevent complete catastrophe and stressing that "the world is waiting on America for leadership," President Wilson here today addressed one of the most enthusiastic audiences to greet him since he left Washington on his tour around the country to render a report on the peace treaty.

The President also read the "new ten points" made public earlier on the train, which he insisted summed up exactly what the treaty means.

"We are debating the treaty as though this was an ordinary treaty between two countries. That is a mistake," he said. "The scope of this treaty is world-wide. Everywhere Germany's aims had to be altered.

"Let me impress upon you that it is this treaty that we must accept and none other. America must represent their greatest statesmen to Paris to draft this treaty. They were skilled men, open minded, and they realized that they were nobody's master.

"A PEOPLE'S TREATY."

"They were the servants of the people of the world and this treaty is the first instrument designed for the happiness of the people of the world.

"This is essentially a people's treaty, and I venture to say it will not go well with any parliament or congresses that dare to alter it.

"This is a severe treaty, but it are is a just treaty. Some of the various gentlemen who are now characterizing this treaty as too Kaiserless than a year ago were unanimously criticising the administration as being too kind toward Germany.

"They were pitiless then. They are pitiful now. They seem to forget what we went through. Don't know there are many mothers and fathers here who never can forget. The thousands of our dead who have sacrificed their lives for the greatest of all principles and the sacrifices made on their behalf must be lived up to. We revere them who saved the Union. I can say that as a born South of the Mason and Dixon line. And will we not revere these boys who fought to redeem the promises of America.

"The fundamental promise of this treaty is that the countries of the world believe in the principle who live in it. That means that human liberty is recognized and protected.

"It is the great charter of human liberty. You cannot again assemble the men and nations who drafted it. It has very, very few compromises in it. It is laid down on straight lines and safeguards the peace of the world, for all time."

TO SHOW MOVIES OF "Y. D." BATTLES OVERSEAS

Movies of the Yankee Division at Chemin des Dames and St. Mihiel will be shown friends and members of the division at Mattapan Post of the American Legion, Wednesday, Sept. 17 and 18, in the Mattapan Scenic Temple. Captain Edwin H. Cooper, official photographer of the Yankee Division, will explain the pictures as they are shown on the screen.

This is the first time these pictures were ever shown in this country. The preparation of the Yankee Division for trench warfare, the hand-to-hand fighting, the Yankees at the Marne and Verdun and Seicheprey and Bantheville, all are shown. The proceeds will go to swell the building fund of the post. The pictures will be shown later, at any post that requests them.

MERCIER AND GIBBONS SALUTE AND EMBRACE

Cardinal Mercier, at left, and Cardinal Gibbons, at right, photographed in Baltimore shortly after their dramatic meeting, witnessed and cheered by thousands of persons.

Baltimore, Sept. 11.—As he stepped from his train, Cardinal Mercier smiled benediction on Baltimore. And Baltimore, represented by thousands of his devoted admirers, responded with a frantic welcome.

"Tax tonum," he said softly, as he embraced Cardinal Gibbons and beneath the benedictions of the aged prelate, a kiss on either cheek. His message of "Peace with Love" was answered by Cardinal Gibbons and in the Latin tongue, "and with the spirit."

Baltimore never has witnessed a more dramatic scene than that at Mount Royal station when the Mercier train pulled in from New York.

Before entering the abode of his host, Cardinal Mercier with Cardinal Gibbons greeted the soldiers who stood at attention facing the Catholic cathedral buildings. Then he walked for the first time into the archepiscopal residence.

MALDEN WOMAN MYSTERIOUSLY DEAD AT HOME

The authorities are mystified as to the cause of death of Mrs. Diva R. Harrower of No. 207 Main street, Malden, widow of Royal L. Barrows.

Mrs. Harrows, who was thirty-four years old, was found dead this morning with wounds on her face and at the back of her head. Her ten-year-old son, Royal, with whom she slept, noticed that his mother was missing from bed when he was ready to play. He got up to find her, so he tells the police, and as he crossed the room she staggered in, clad in her night clothes, and got into bed.

When the boy wakened at 8 o'clock he found his mother's pillow covered with blood. He called his grandmother, Mrs. Carrie M. Dillingham, who summoned three doctors.

Mrs. Barrows regained consciousness enough to recognize her family but not enough to make a statement as to what had happened. She died at 10 o'clock.

LAUNCH DESTROYER AT SQUANTUM WORKS

The U. S. torpedo boat destroyer Isherwood was launched at the Squantum yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation.

The sponsor, Mrs. Norma Robert-Waiting, wife of Lieutenant-Commander Waiting, stationed at the Squantum Works, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses and a handsome diamond studded platinum wrist watch as a memento of the occasion.

Benjamin Franklin Isherwood, for whom the boat was named, was born in New York. He was appointed commodore in New York on May 25, 1844, and during the Civil War developed the high speed steam engine, which made it possible for United States naval boats to capture the fast blockade runners.

MYERS FEARS SOVIET RULE FOR AMERICA

Washington, Sept. 11.—"Within two years we shall have a Soviet government in this country unless something is done to check the movement for unionization," Senator Myer of Montana declared in the Senate this afternoon. "If the steel workers strike as they propose, I predict that it will be followed by a nation-wide railroad strike. It is time for Congress to act."

Auto Dealers Do Duty as Traffic Squad at Crossings

In answer to an appeal of Superintendent of Police Crowley to Chester I. Campbell, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, for help in handling the automobile traffic, a squad of men went on duty this morning at crossings in the downtown section of the city.

Mr. Campbell agreed to assist the superintendent, but thought the automobile dealers would not be able to act as policemen other than to direct traffic in the congested part of the city. This was agreeable to Superintendent Crowley, and Mr. Campbell and Sherwood Hall were appointed a committee to organize a traffic squad with that understanding.

Mr. Campbell and Mr. Hall have canvassed the automobile dealers throughout the city and secured sufficient men to organize a squad of fifty men daily to take charge of crossings.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Coal miners of the United States will demand increased wages and shorter working hours when they meet in conference with the coal operators in Buffalo on September 25, Percy Tetlow of the United Mine Workers, told the Senate committee investigating the coal question.

"It would be premature to say that there will be any serious disagreement," Tetlow said. "It has always been the policy of the miners to continue work during negotiations."

The police wish to do away with further delay. They will hold another meeting Saturday.

BAY STATE MEN DECIDE HOUR FOR STRIKE

Will Be Announced at Carmen's Special Meetings Tonight, Says Vahey

According to a statement issued by James H. Vahey, counsel for the Bay State Carmen's Union today, today and hour for the strike of 4,500 employes of the Bay State road have been set by the appointed strike committee.

The members of the 15 unions, comprising the 4,500 employes, will be informed of the committee's chosen date and hour at special meetings tonight.

The strike will begin either tomorrow morning or Saturday morning, according to Chairman William J. Murphy of the joint conference board of the unions.

Trustees of the company have made no reply to the demands of the joint conference board, although the time set by the ultimatum of the union men expired yesterday. They have declared, however, that they will insist that the employes abide by the award of the National War Labor Board which they now seek to set aside. This award gave the employes an increase of 12½ per cent. in wages, but the union men think they should receive as much as is paid the Boston elevated men.

The 4,500 employes of the company voted three weeks ago to strike.

I was treated by an excellent physician but got no relief from him. I read of the remarkable cures of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians in the treatment of the deaf and I had them treat me. # MINORITY SAYS U. S. LOSES BY TREATY DELAY

Foreign Relations Committee Supporters of Wilson Submit Their Report

Washington, Sept. 11.—All rights of the United States to share in the concessions and agreements exacted from Germany "by a dictated peace" would be sacrificed if the Senate were to reject the treaty of Versailles, it was asserted in a minority report submitted to the Senate this afternoon by six Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who are staunch supporters of President Wilson. The senators who signed the report are Hitchcock, Nebraska; Williams, Mississippi; Swanson, Virginia; Pomerene, Ohio; Smith, Arizona, and Pittman, Nevada. Senator Shields of Tennessee, the remaining Democratic member of the committee, who recently declared for reservations, declined to sign.

Another argument advanced in the report for immediate ratification of the treaty without amendments or reservations was that delay and doubt as to its acceptance by the Senate has already resulted in a reduction of American exports from an average of $50,000,000 to $170,000,000 a month because "private credit cannot and will not be furnished as long as the peace settlement is in doubt."

REFLECTS WILSON'S VIEWS.

Regarded as reflecting the views of President Wilson, the report recommended that the "work of the peace conference be confirmed, the will of the people fulfilled, and the peace of the world advanced by the ratification of the treaty—the best hope of the world—even, if like all human instrumentalities, it be not divinely perfect in every detail."

In replying to the majority report previously submitted by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as chairman of the committee, the six Democratic senators presented the opinion that the amendments and reservations adopted by the majority of the committee were intended to defeat ratification.

They (the majority) have "appealed to every prejudice and resorted to every desperate method of attack to destroy this great international effort to establish peace, but they suggest nothing in its place," it was asserted.

"We deplore," the report stated, "the long and unnecessary delay to which the treaty has been subjected while lodged in the committee whose majority decisions and recommendations were from the start a foregone conclusion. They could have been made in July as well as in September and would have been the same.

INDUSTRY IN FERMENT.

"The industrial world is in ferment, the financial world in doubt and commerce halts while this great delay in the peace settlement has been caused by the majority of a committee known to be out of harmony with the majority of the Senate and the majority of the people. This is government by obstruction as well as by a minority.

"The claims of the majority of this committee that we have exported over $11,000,000 worth of goods to Germany since the armistice and without a peace settlement is no doubt true. To other countries during the same period we exported over $5,000,000,000 worth. What was exported to Germany, as stated by the majority report, was practically nothing. It is only 11 cents worth of American products for each person in Germany in seven months, or two cents per person per month, yet the majority report boasts of it as evidence of trade revival in spite of treaty delay.

"Referring to the action of the majority of the committee, we unite in opposing and condemning the recommendations both as to textual amendments and as to proposed reservations. As far as the proposed textual amendments are concerned, we see no reason to discuss their character at length. In our opinion they have no merit, but whether they be good, bad or indifferent, their adoption by the Senate can have no possible effect except to defeat the participation of the United States in the treaty.

"None of them could by any possibility be accepted even by the great nations associated with the United States in the war, and none of them could by any possibility be dictated to Germany. To adopt any one of them, therefore, is equivalent to rejecting the treaty.

COULDN'T COERCE GERMANY.

"The minority contends that the suggestion in the majority report that the peace conference could consider textual amendments made by the Senate "indicates a total misconception of the situation." The conference has no power to bring German delegates to Paris, it is asserted.

"The power of compulsion has been exhausted," the report continues. "Germany was told where to sign and when to sign and when to ratify, and Germany has closed the chapter by signing and ratifying. There must be a finality to ultimata as a treaty is to contemplation.

"To adopt an amendment as to reject the treaty because that the United States will sacrifice all of the concessions secured from Germany by a dictated peace. While these concessions are not so large as those which other nations associated with us secure in reparations, they are nevertheless of tremendous importance, and could only be secured under a dictated peace. Among the concessions which the United States would sacrifice by the adoption of any amendment or the rejection of the treaty may be included the following:

WHAT U. S. MAY LOSE.

"First—Germany's acknowledgment of responsibility for the war and her promise to make restitution for damages resulting from it.

"Second—Germany's promise to us in the treaty that she will not impose higher or other customs duties or charges on our goods than those charged to the most favored nation and will not prohibit or restrict, or discriminate against imports directly or indirectly from our country.

"Third—Germany's promise to us in the treaty that she will make no discrimination in German ports or ships plying bearing our flag.

"Fourth—That for six months after the treaty goes into effect no customs duty will be levied against imports from the United States except the lowest duties that were in force for the first six months of 1914.

"Fifth—Germany's agreement with us that the United States shall have the privilege of having such of the treaties with Germany as were in existence prior to the war as we may desire.

"Sixth—Germany's promise to us to restore the property of our citizens seized in Germany, or to compensate the owners.

"Seventh—Germany's very important agreement validating all acts by the United States and by the alien property custodian by which we seized and proceeded to liquidate $300,000,000 worth of property in the United States belonging to German citizens.

LUSITANIA CLAIMS.

"Eighth—Germany's agreement that the proceeds of the sale of those properties may be used to compensate our citizens in Germany if Germany fails to do so, or to pay American pro-war claims against Germany for property destroyed and lives taken similar to the losses because of the destruction of the Lusitania.

"Ninth—Germany's agreement that she will compensate her own citizens for property, patents and other rights belonging to them in the United States seized during the war by our government.

"Tenth—Germany's agreement that no claim can be made against the United States in respect to the use or sale during the war by our government or by persons acting for our government, of any rights in industrial, literary or artistic property, including patents.

"Eleventh—Germany's agreement that the United States shall retain over 500,000 tons of German shipping seized in American ports which much more than compensate us for shipping lost during the war.

"Twelfth—We would lose our membership on the reparations commission, which will be the most powerful international body ever created and which will have enormous control over the trade and commerce of Germany with the rest of the world for years to come."

New York, Sept. 11.—"Pershing's Pets" the name applied to the composite regiment of six-foot soldiers which has paraded in New York, London and Paris victory celebrations, will be taken on an exhibition tour throughout the United States if General Pershing has his way.

It became known today that the commander-in-chief is desirous of personally heading the regiment on tour through the principal cities of the country.

Plans for the tour are being held in abeyance pending a decision from the War Department as to its practicability. In the picked regiment are hundreds of drafted men who are anxious to get out of the service and this may finally militate against it.

"No regiment in the world can march like this regiment," said one of responsibility of the War and her of responsibility of the War and her promise to make restitution for damages resulting from it.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

VON TIRPITZ REVEALS 1916 PEACE MOVE

VON TIRPITZ MEMOIRS.

By ALFRED VON TIRPITZ,
Grand Admiral of the German Navy.

In 1916 it seemed so likely to me that the United States would eventually enter the war that I strongly advocated the issuance of orders to commanders of German vessels interned in America to put to sea and sink their ships.

This plan was not adopted by the government. One of its chief opponents was Herbert Ballin, managing director of the Hamburg-American Line, and one of the Kaiser's closest friends and advisers. Ballin declared that should any such attempt be made by German vessels in the United States their commanders would promptly be hanged by the Americans. I thought then, and still think, that this was impossible.

It would have been better for us had they followed my advice in this matter at any cost, for it was just these same swift ships which later brought over so many American troops in 1917 and 1918—the troops who crushed us.

It was just about at this time that unfortunate incidents with the United States began to pile up against us menacingly. The publicity given in the United States to Dr. Alfred Zimmerman's message to Heinrich von Eckhardt, German Ambassador at Mexico City, to use very effort to enbroil the United States and Mexico in border controversies, aroused a storm of protest and indignation in American.

(The famous cable from the then German Foreign Minister revealed the German plot to tempt Mexico with a "seizure" of Texas and other border territory. Zimmerman was also the author of the correspondence leading up to the notorious "spurlos versenkt" cablegram of Count Luxburg in Buenos Aires.—Editor's Note.)

This action by Zimmerman was known but not opposed by the Reichstag, although, on the grounds that it greatly assisted Wilson in his policy of opposing Germany, it was decried by myself, von Bernstorff, Prince von Hatzfeldt, secretary of the German Embassy in Washington; Ballin, Geheimrat (privy councillor), Heinrich F. Albert and, in fact, all other German thinkers who had been in America.

(Albert was the german financial agent in the United States who was commonly regarded as the paymaster of Germany's spy and propaganda plots here. Intercepted documents showed him to be in the highest confidence of the Kaiser in such an extent that on occasion he issued orders to von Bernstorff.—Editor's Note.)

We were all agreed that Wilson never could have declared war against us had not the pro-German feeling prevalent in the West and South been outranged from us by the Mexican incident and a series of similar blunders.

What America's entry into the war meant to the Entente, I need not tell you.

Final Submarine War Too Late

Whether the reversion to unrestricted submarine warfare in 1917, declaring all waters contiguous to Great Britain and Ireland to be enemy territory, and affording ever more numerous irritations to the United States, was a wise step or not, I am not prepared to say. In 1916, if submarine warfare had been persisted in, I believe England would have been defeated.

(At this period, foreshadowing the retirement of Admiral Jellicoe as First Sea Lord, British naval experts were clamoring that his defensive naval policy was allowing the U-boats to ruin British merchant shipping, and in August of that year, Arthur Pollen, the leading English civilian naval critic, said in Washington that a drastic change in the British naval policy was necessary if the submarine destruction was to be stopped.—Editor's Note)

It is impossible for me to make up my mind whether, if the responsibility had been left to me and I had known all the facts, I still would have waged the submarine war in 1917. As an actual fact at that time, I had an instinctive feeling that it was too late, but allowed myself to be convinced by those in high office that it must be risked. Our entangled situation left us scarcely any other loophole by which we could hope to escape utter ruin, although its value was already lessened and the corresponding danger heightened.

I am certain there was a possibility of attaining a tolerable peace if Germany had concentrated all her powers on the submarine war, as England did in combatting it. We were then so very near a satisfactory peace. It was not the fault of our defensive forces that we did not obtain it.

(Von Tirpitz undoubtedly refers to the rapprochements recently described in a published correspondence of Prince Lichnowsky, former German ambassador to London).

When Hindenburg and Ludendorff were finally entrusted with the leadership of the army, the army could no longer achieve a favorable peace. The navy, however, could twice have brought it within reach—in 1914 through the fleet, and with still greater probability in 1916 through relentless submarine warfare. The most terrible thing is the knowledge that our present situation might have been avoided, no tonly politically but from a military point of view.

To my mind our great crisis did not come at the Marne, at Verdun, at the Somme or, in fact, in any great land engagement.

The Sussex note was the decisive turning point of the war. It was the beginning of our capitulation. Once determined upon ruthless submarine war, we should have held our ground and insisted upon its legality under international law against every pressure brought to bear. Instead of that, by promising to indemnify the families of the victims of the torpedoing of the Sussex, we showed the world that we were going down before America.

In the beginning, moral indignation against submarine war in America and Great Britain had been largely bluff to intimidate us. By repeated signs of weakening, Germany permitted it to become something more. Even those in Germany who were so finely ideal that they deplored the necessity of submarine warfare, realized the fundamental power of prestige and were troubled by our acceptance of Wilson's knock-out note.

By the decisions of March and May, 1916, weakening our submarine offensive, we delivered England from the most serious vital danger which had ever threatened her in the course of her history. By spurning at this time the salvation of submarine warfare Germany signed away her own birthright as one of the great powers.

Record of Lost Opportunities

In fact the record of the war is a record of one lost opportunity after another for Germany to wrest from England a satisfactory peace. After the battle of Jutland, one of the Emperor's close adviser's exclaimed:

"What a pity! And England was so near granting us peace."

A German naval victory, or even a drawn battle, would have shaken England's prestige. The effect of the Coronel battle on neutral powers was convincing proof of this. To wipe out that defeat England thought it necessary to draw heavily from her overwhelming active forces in home waters, in order to prevent a recurrence of such an incident in any other part of the world.

I believe that uncertainty as to the ultimate position of Japan was one reason for England's naval policy of extreme caution. The pain becomes almost unbearable when one thinks how the face of the world would have been changed by the effect of a sea battle fought to a finish in the early months of the war. Had the Emperor allowed himself to be differently advised or followed his own instincts to allow the grand fleet to fight Germany would not today lie in ruins.

(It is curious to note that while von Tirpitz maintains that Germany could have won the war by a naval engagement in the first months, Admiral Jellicoe was critisized in Parliament on the grounds that had the British navy adopted an offensive policy the war would have been ended with victory for the entente in 1914.—Editor's note)

But instead of forcibly seizing peace, Germany elected to endeavor to cajole it through doubtful diplomacy. In 1916, when I should have been prosecuting the war at sea with every ounce of vigor which Germany had, I was instead directed to open negotiations with friendly Russians, looking toward a peace with Russia by offering concessions to Serbia, establishing the Narew line as strategic security for East Prussia, in return for which Russia was to have part of Galicia, for which in turn Austria would compensate herself by taking Sandjak, Novibazar and Albania. Warships of both nations were to be allowed through the Dardanelles and we would abandon the Bagdad Railway or share it with Russia. Russia was to back Persia and Germany was to take over the Russian debt to France.

The conditions were to be much more favorable to Russia if through her we could establish peace with Japan. In that case Japan was to give back Tsingtau to China, and Russia and Germany would occupy it, unfortified, under lease from China. Germany would pledge herself to assist Japan if she were attacked by a non-European or a European power.

The attempt at this rapprochement was doomed to failure by sending the far too conspicuous Prince Max of Baden to negotiate it.

Our premature attempt to bring about peace negotiations through the Danish court did nothing more than acquaint the Danes with our weakness.

(This seems to be the first published statement that peace rapprochements were conducted at this time through the Danish court.—Editor's note).

Scores Defensive War

I attribute directly to Betmann-Hollweg the failure to make possible the realization of Petrograd's wish for peace. But this opportunity was lost and never again was Germany in a position to offer Russia inducements which would have evoked a complete continental peace advantageous to Germany.

It was this diplomatic dickering that led to the adoption of the catch phrase, "purely defensive war." The attitude of mind which this fostered in Germany was bound to lead inevitably to ruin. It was purely an illusion. Should the German nationality survive, the curse of history and our descendants will fall upon those who brought about this state of mind.

How different was this from the vigorous, antagonistic attitude of Lloyd George, who kept ever before the minds of the British people the idea of full victory—what he called a "knock-out."

Germany was undermined, her strength and will to fight was sapped by the widespread propaganda that only as a democracy could she negotiate a peace of reconciliation and that all which stood in the way of peace was monarchy and militarism.

For this propaganda Scheidemann, Erzberger and Prince Max of Baden were responsible. They played upon the radicalism of the working classes whom I denounce for their eternal readiness to destroy their true supporters, those on whom they depend for their economic existence, simply because those men have more money than they.

At the same time, I do not deny the terrific nerve strain undergone by the German masses, because of the long continued war, the losses in the field, and especially the hunger blockade. The physical and psychical effects of this most cruel of all weapons, whose introduction into modern warfare was reserved for Great Britain, was a great factor in the gradual slackening of the nation's power of resistance.

So far as complete victory for Germany was concerned I ceased to expect it before the second battle of the Marne. The Americans would have robbed us even then of many of the fruits of victory. As early as 1915, despite the then existing enmity for Great Britain, the President of the United States is said to have used these words:

"The aim of determined statesmanship still be not to allow the German lying in Germany to develop."

His statements made also by other world figures, that Germany could work her way up again, even though defeated in her war aims, never entirely failed me because I could not see how that could come about unless we permanently extended our dominion to the coast of the English Channel.

Hertling Tired Old Man

This involved economic domination of Belgium and Holland, but in both these nations subsisted on German virality and were outlets for our economic life. It was to our interest to allow them to flourish in political freedom. England, on the other hand, wished to make of them mere bridgeheads.

It was this principle which actuated the pernicious peace resolution of 1917, engineered by that tired old man Hertling. Had the Vaterland party been encouraged at that time it would have destroyed the idea of a peace of relinquishment, involving as a principle the return of occupied territories and we might have held them in reserve as guarantee of better conditions.

In October, 1917, when the peace movement was gaining strength and the government was talking of returning conquered territory in the decision that it would gain a favorable peace, I wrote Prince Max not to be hoodwinked by disguised aims of the entente, pointing out that the real aim of the Anglo-Americans, pursued with crafty political skill and tenacious consistency was the destruction of Germany and the domination of the world by their capitalism. I told him that Wilson knew that the stopping of the submarine campaign rendered any further German resistance impossible, and called upon him to rouse determined national resistance to the demands of these political blackmailers.

Prince Max marked these and certain other passages in this letter, sent it to other State secretaries, and on the 17th and 18th of October the majority in the imperial government was for negotiating for peace, award in hand.

But on the 19th the Scheidemann party consulted the particularly ill-chosen Count Wolf Metternich, who was all but a pacifist, and, backed by the Moderate Socialists, Prince Max, Lichnowsky and other fallen political leaders were for negotiating supinely for any sort of peace. Count Wolf Metternich turned the majority.

The army and the navy could still have held out until Spring 1919, and we should then have had real peace negotiations.

DOYLE AND WEST BOX IN LYNN

Boys Meet in 12-Round Bout—Commercial Club Show Called Off

By JACK CONWAY

Paul Doyle of this city and Cuick West, Holyoke welterweight, will exchange broadsides in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Casino A. C. of Lynn tonight. As both men are crying to get a match with Young Kloby, the contest has aroused considerable interest.

Doyle is one of the liftiest of the New England welterweights. The New England welterweight record only stark work on his record is his defeat at the hands of Barney Adair of New York. Many of those who saw that contest were of the opinion Tony Palmozio's decision was entitled to a draw at the least.

At New Bedford, Monday night, Doyle treated his fans when he boxed circles around Young Gould, who easily outpoints Young Shade in the has been a stumbling block in the path of quite a few of our local boxers.

West won over Oscar Gardner at Clinton last week, and is confident he'll be out in front this p. m.

In the semi-final number of eight frames, Kid Green of Memphis will exchange punches with Jack Noyes of Chicago. Bunch O'Neil of Lynn and Frankie Anderson, who hails from Revere, will furnish the thrills in another eight-round number.

Pal Reed, the hard hitting navy boxer, and Johnny Alecks of Philadelphia have been booked by Jack Leonard to clash in the star bout of twelve rounds at Marlboro tomorrow night. Reed boxer with his right hand extended and if he is able to score with one of his left hand smashes the Quaker welterweight is liable to hit the canvas. In his last start Reed flattened Patsy DeLucca of the West End.

Pal spent the Summer at a Maine resort, where he kept in good condition by acting as a life guard and by going light boxing. Alecks is a stiff puncher and hopes to add another K.o.o victory to his record.

Frank Miller of Everett will clash with Jack Demaris of Franklin in the semi-final number of eight rounds. At Palace of Marlboro will box Arthur Jacques in a six-round event, while Young Desmonte of Marlboro will oppose Kid Donuco of Marlboro in another six-round contest.

Young Dyana, New England bantamweight champion, has been signed to clash with Al Girard of the North End in a twelve-round bout at the Commercial Club of Lynn for tomorrow night. The boys have agreed to weigh in at 118 pounds at 5 o'clock the day of the bustle.

The show at the Commercial A. C. has been called off by Bob McKirdy on account of the police strike. All all-star card was on the program.

How to Play Baseball

THIS is the ninety-fifth of a series of 100 articles by Hugh S. Fullerton, celebrated baseball expert, on "How to Play Baseball." These articles will be a feature of the American's sport pages. Don't miss them.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

The best system of attack yet devised in baseball was that which permitted batters and runners to exchange simple signals testifying the other of their intentions. This eliminated from team work the great variety of signals used by bench managers, coachers and others to direct play. The only signals necessary were simple ones between the men engaged.

The batter arranged signals with the two men who preceded him in the batting order, and the two succeeding him, by which he could tell the runner ahead of him when he intended to hit the ball and they could tell him when they would start to steal. The system gives both batters and runners the fullest chance to exercise judgment and initiative in the run and hit, which is the best form of attack for scoring runs, on account of speed. The batter is supposed to see the runner make a start from the base and to hit so as to protect him. The run and hit, however, is not a great success when right-handed batters are at the plate and works better with left-handed batters up.

One would think that a right-handed batter, facing toward first base, could see the runner start, but the fact is a right-handed batter does not see first base clearly. His eyes are on the pitcher, and out of the tail of his eye he can see third base, the left-handed batters see first base out of the tail of their eyes almost unconsciously. Herman Schaefer, one of the greatest exponents of the run and hit, always batted left-handed with runners on first and right-handed at other times, according to the catcher.

Jim Crawford was the greatest example of a batter who protected runner. He did not signal on take a signal from coho, but allowed by great skill in hitting as Cobb was running.

For less skilled players the hit and run still works well, and it is used even by good teams in the major leagues on hits not developed the art of hitting behind runners. The hit and run usually is ordered from the bench by the manager through the coachers. Frequently the signal is given from the bench to third base, thence to first and back to the batter, which exposes the play to Cobb chance of detection.

One very successful manager uses the simplest possible formula. He tells the batter before he leaves the bench what he is expected to do, the batter signals the runner before reaching the plate. In this particular team the signal was four times given by the number of hits the batter swung as he approached the plate or the way they hit them away.

If he carried two hats he intended to hit the second ball pitched, if three he intended to wait. If he came up with one hat he intended to hit the first ball pitched. The base runner planning to steal always should signal the batter what ball he plans to make the effort on.

The batter then can protect him to some extent by sticking at the ball and jumping across the plate so as to prevent the catcher from gaining an undue advantage in catching the ball and starting his throw. The catcher ordinarily catches a ball at each, a batter strikes three feet further back than when the batter does not swing. He is stepping forward to make the catch when the batter does not strike, but stands still when the batter swings.

HARVARD SQUAD IS PRAISED BY ELI CAPTAIN

"That's a fine looking bunch of players you've got there," declared Tim Callahan, captain elect of the Yale team, to Head Coach Robert T. Fisher, whose guest he was on Soldiers Field where 100 Harvard men were being put through their football paces.

Callahan looked in prime condition, but had nothing to say on Yale's football prospects. The Crimson already has two weeks' start over the Blue, who do not report until next week.

Coach Fisher in a talk to the squad advised the men to use their own initiative on the matter of becoming Boston police volunteers. The loss of practice, he said, would not be accounted against a man in the football records for the team.

VOLUNTEER AS POLICEMEN.

Two members of the squad have volunteered for duty in Boston, George Batchelder, who made his letter in the Yale game as an end in 1916, and Fiske Brown, a guard on the S. A. T. C. team last Spring. The majority of the squad is still on the fence, and for the most part it is believed that the constituted State authorities are the only ones who can safely do police work.

Henry Sprague, a crack punter of Percy Haughton's 3-to-0 teams is giving Coach Sam Felton a hand with the kickers. Sprague's punting prevented a Harvard disaster the first year that Haughton coached on Soldiers Field.

TO STAFF SQUAD.

The players on the team who have been passed are asked to report to Dr. Nichols for the club physician, for examination. Among these are Mose Hadley, tackle, and Ernie Hobbs, quarterback. The doctor's examination will determine the fitness of these men for playing.

By Wednesday of next week it is expected that the squad of a hundred men will be split and drilled teams A and B. Scrimmages will soon follow, and from the work in these teams places on the varsity squad will be alloted. Harvard's initial game is set for Saturday, September 27.

PHILLIES GET AMES BY THE WAIVER ROUTE

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Davey Cravath, champion waiver blocker of the National League, has secured another twirler. This time it is Leon Ames, whom Catsy has rescued. The Cardinals tried to drop Ames, who is now in his sixteenth season as a big leaguer, into minor ranks, but Cravath said nay and took the pitcher at the waiver price.

VERY MUCH YALE IN COLLEGE TENNIS

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Captain C. S. Gaziano of Yale and Kirk Reid of Cornell were scheduled to meet in the final round for the Intercollegiate singles title today. Superiority in the doubles is already Yale's, as both teams which were to meet in the finals should represent the New Haven college.

Gaziano was forced to the limit by his teammate, K. S. Hawes, also of Yale, in one of the singles clashes today, winning by 7-5, 5-7, in two hard fought sets. Hawes was the more brilliant of the two in service and at the net, but made many errors at critical moments.

Reid, the Ithacan entry, had hard work beating J. W. Dudley of swarthmore in the other semi-final in the singles, but after dropping the first set, staged a fine rally that gave him the next two.

George Helm, Harvard captain, and Frank Hangher gave Garland and Hawkes a scare in one of the doubles semi-finals, but were eventually beaten in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. The other doubles semi-final was easy for K. R. L. Simmons and J. B. Moren, the Yale second team, which defeated H. T. Kaltenbach and N. Herndon of Princeton, 6-3, 6-3.

PUNTERS SHOW UP WELL AT BOSTON COLLEGE

Considerable strength in punting was shown by the Boston College football squad during the hour's practice session held under the supervision of Coach Cavanaugh. Beginning Monday two practice sessions will be held at University Heights.

GOLFING NOTES

The rule relating to a lost ball in golf seems to be the most abused one of the game, as by the rule you are allowed five minutes to look for your ball, and if not found in that time it is declared lost. Now some players would think it poor sportsmanship or fellowship, and the proffered advantage is rarely taken, which, of course, is the wrong stand to take in the game.

Minutes are apt to occur in matches, if this rule is not lived up to strictly as it did in a recent tournament in Nova Scotia, one of the players could not locate his ball on the last hole for a period of about fifteen minutes, finally finding it, playing a beautiful shot and winning the match.

A protest as such is somebody that more than five minutes were used in looking for the ball and that the winner was really the loser. The committee decided although the point was raised that the loser in the first case was equally as guilty if he did not claim the forfeit at the expiration of the time, they would allow the prolong.

As a matter of fact the committee would have ruled that both players in this case forfeited their rights to further play in the tournament.

Now if players would only observe this rule more closely it would help the game, making the play faster and better. Don't game is often spoiled by batters to look for your own or your opponent's ball, spending in most cases from ten to fifteen minutes tiring yourself out, and thereby losing interest in the game.

Most cases you blow and it takes a sturdy golfer to control his temper and keep again. Yes, five minutes is enough to protect your game and stick to the rule.

Golfers Rooting Hard For Ruth and His Record

Babe Ruth has all the golfers with him, and they are a proud lot to know that their fellow golfer is setting up a record for home runs that will stand for years to come, if not for all time. Ruth has used quite a lot of the golf swing in his hitting, his follow through is perfect, from a golfing standpoint.

Maybe Babe can't hit a golf ball. If in doubt, ask any Bellevue member, as he made a record hit there on the last hole, hitting the clubhouse with his drive.

Three Amateur Tourneys To Get Under Way Today

Jesse Guilford lost the amateur championship to Ouimet, but now comes through and does the trick that no other amateur has ever done, winning the Massachusetts open title.

* * *

Mike Brady can't get over that bad round of his which, of course, lost the United States open, he had at Worcester in the Massachusetts event. Pice G's told the story of that morning's round, and after it looked like a sure thing for the title.

* * *

All aboard for Worcester. Brookline and Weston is the cry for the amateurs today.

* * *

Field of Stars Entered In Engineers' Tournament

The "pro" golf tourney at the Engineers' Country Club next week will be the big thing during that week in the golfing world. All rounds will be at 36 holes.

Jim Barnes and Carl Anderson will start the tournament driving off at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Walter Hagan will be the only leading professional missing, and the match that most golfers were looking forward to will not take place, referring, of course, to Walter and Jim Barnes meeting in a 36-hole match play, which would be some match—a 50-50 bet.

Southern Open Title Goes to Barnes by Single Stroke

Atlanta, Sept. 11.—Jim Barnes, the St. Louis professional and holder of the Western open championship, has annexed another title. He won the Southern open title by a margin of one up from Bobby Jones of this city, who was also the runner-up to Jock Hutchison for national amateur honors. The champion took 73 strokes in which to negotiate the 72 holes. Two of his rounds were made in 74, while his highest score for the course was 76. Jones shot the last round in 73, and his highest was the same as Barnes'.

WHITE SOX GRAB OFF KIEFER, PITCHING PHENOM

Chic., N. T., Sept. 11.—Joe Kiefer, hailed by un-State baseball men as a real second "Hod," will travel South with the Chicago White Sox next Spring. Kiefer has affixed his signature to a contract tendered by Scout Edward Walsh of the pale, who has been looking over Kiefer's work here on an amateur team for the last three weeks. Kiefer, a boy in nineteen, has been twirling for Central New York nines for five seasons. Last year, pitching for a semi-pro outfit at Deerfield, he captured twenty-four out of twenty-five games.

Youngsters Showing the Way to Veteran Players

Youth is certainly making a bold bid at impossibility honors on the links this year, but the seniors are apt to come through the rustling season, when they will have gotten rid of their war kinks.

Three of the four semi-final ties in the championship were under 25 years of age, and one of them four Summers short of the voting age.

The veteran Walter J. Travis had reached an age equal to the combined ages of Jack Herron and Jones by the time he won his first championship a few years back.

Stocks Weak in New York; Strike Fears Cause Early Slump

STEELS LED IN DECLINE AT OPENING

Market Rallied Soon and Baldwin Advanced 11 Points From Lowest

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks slumped in New York at the opening, owing to strike news and fears, but rallied during the morning and while still weak in most instances at noon were by that time well above their lowest. Baldwin turned a 6¼ recession into 1¾ gain during the forenoon. It advanced eleven points in fact, from its opening figure. Crucible at its highest was up ten points from the opening quotation.

Steels and equipments were leaders in the movement at the beginning of business. Trading was brisk at the outset, but of moderate volume afterward. First-hour transactions totalled around 225,000 shares. The early call rate was 6 per cent.

At noon, U. S. Steel was off 2¾ at 103¾, after ranging from 101 to 103¾.

Among issues to show gains were Lackawa. Steel, American Locomotive, Haskell and Barker, Mexican Petroleum, Pittsburgh Coal and Industrial Alcohol. They were up from one to four points, the latter honors being held by the strongest.

STEELS LEAD DECLINE.

There was a decided recession when the market reopened after the Perching celebration, with steels and equipments leading the decline. Among largest initial losers were U. S. Steel, 1¾; Crucible, 11; Bethlehem B, 7¾; Car & Foundry, 2¾; American Locomotive, 5; Baldwin, 6¾, and Republic Steel, 4½. Motors also were decidedly weak and shipping issues sagged, while oils receded from one to six points. Atlantic Gulf fell five points at the end. Mexican Petroleum six, Texas & Pacific and U. S. Rubber more than four points each. The calling of a strike by unionized steel workers caused the weakness in steels, and other issues followed sympathetically. U. S. Steel opened 52,000 shares at 101 to 102¾, 500 at 102¾ and 1,000 at 102¾, off 4¾ to 5¾, 4¾ and 4¾.

TRADERS WERE EXCITED.

Some excitement attended the opening of the exchange. It was fifteen minutes or more before U. S. Steel quotations appeared on the tape. Overnight and holiday orders were principally on the selling side and when the business began outside offerings totalled thousands of shares besides those that came from the west while trading was on a large scale, but it soon was found that the market had support and it began to rally. Opening prices for the first hour were the lowest for the day. By 11 o'clock Baldwin and Mexican Petroleum, specially, were showing vitality. Bethlehem had advanced more than four points above its first price, and Crucible had recovered more than eight. Mexican U. S. Steel was showing less than its first opening loss. The improvement ran through the list.

STRIKES CAUSE WEAKNESS.

Strikes are the chief bear influence in the stock market. When closed Tuesday prices were up and sentiment bullish. Reports of what was happening in Boston and the calling of a nation-wide strike on September 22 by the twenty-four affiliated unions of the steel industry renewed fears which have been haunting Wall Street for weeks. Many holders started in to unload as soon as the opportunity presented. But some important interests were quick to buy on the recession. The call for a steel strike is said to have alarmed the public more than steel manufacturers.

British Coal Exports

Coal exports of the United Kingdom during the five months ended by June last were only about half of the total for the last pre-war year, the figures being 72,160,000 tons in 1919 and 37,000,000 tons in 1919.

Organized Labor Should Know That a General Strike Now Will Surely End in Failure

As a friend of organized labor, when its cause is just, this newspaper again warns the workmen that a general sympathetic strike to support the right of any American military organization to join a trade union, is as contrary to fundamental principles as would be the granting permission of our judges and legislators, as such, to join an organization of employers. Such an attempt is without public sympathy or approval, and is bound to be treated by the public severely and WITHOUT COMPROMISE.

As a friend of the workingman the American warns him that in every such general strike last year the strikers failed, lost their jobs and suffered great privations. General strikes have been tried in Liverpool, in Montreal, in Winnipeg and Seattle, and in each instance have failed to accomplish their purpose. A general strike cannot but fail here, and it cannot but seriously injure the cause of the workingman and especially of organized labor.

Undoubtedly, those opposed to organized labor accepted this issue, because they know it is the most favorable issue that they can possibly take with organized labor. It is, therefore, the one issue that organized labor ought to avoid, because it will alienate the great disinterested body of citizens, who are not employers, but who have a general sympathy for the workingmen when they are right, but who, being disinterested and wishing always to see the right prevail, will not hesitate to oppose the workman whenever they think he is wrong.

The leaders of organized labor are intelligent and experienced men. Surely, unless they are suffering from mental aberration, they must realize that a general strike on the present issue would be marching straight to defeat. No strike has ever been or ever will be won when the opposition is determined and the disinterested citizens are untriendly.

Keep Cool

Let everybody keep cool in Boston's present situation. There is nothing to justify any hysteria or any fright. If our public officials had understood crowd psychology few of the things which happened when the police went out would have happened.

So far the public is unquestionably opposed to the strike. Let there be no action upon the part of the public authorities which will change public opinion. The greatest patience and moderation on the part of the State Guard must be exercised. The slightest brutality or unnecessary force will jeopardize the whole situation. It is better to bring fifty thousand men into the city and control the situation by muscle than to attempt to control it with one thousand with ball cartridges.

Let us remember that the power which can put down opposition most gently is the greatest power.

Six Months' Pay Not Charity, Merely Part of Justice

One Private Luke O'Toole of No. 316 Fifteenth street, Brooklyn, has written to Senator Thomas of Colorado a letter which has found its way into the Congressional Record and in which he says:

"It is not the industrious, everyday worker, intent upon earning his livelihood, who is advocating the 'six months' bonus'; nor is it, on the whole, those who served their country when the need arose who are clamoring for this unjust payment. It is the cheap office-seeker, the petty officeholder who cannot win votes on his merits, the agigator who plays upon the money need of the shiftless ex-service men, and last, but not least, the notorious 'yellow press.'

*"It is the government's duty to take ample care of those who were disabled and the dependents of those who made the supreme sacrifice in this war, but it is not the duty of the government to maintain a charitable institution for those who are able to work and earn a livelihood. * * * if the passage of this sort of bills was left to a referendum vote of the ex-service men, an overwhelming majority would be found in opposition to them."*

Canada has paid a minimum of $600 for a private with dependents, in the army three years, besides free farms and farm loans up to $7,500.

Australia, in addition to paying her service men a great deal higher pay than we paid ours, has made equally generous provision to place her returned soldiers on the land and to finance their future.

In neither Canada nor Australia are these grants looked upon as "charity" in any sense, but rather as simple acts of justice to men who have earned it by heroic service.

Mr. O'Toole admits that he found the $60 handed to him by our government at his discharge from the army a welcome help. But he was fortunate in having a job awaiting him.

If, like many service men, he had had to hunt long for that job, the $60 would have not carried him far. As a matter of fact, at the prevailing prices, $60 is not enough to clothe a discharged soldier in the clothes he needs after he has put aside his uniform.

Records of the employment bureaus show that of Greater New York's returned veterans 44 per cent. are still unemployed.

The six months' extra pay of $180 which more than SIX MILLION Americans, through the Hearst newspapers, have petitioned the Congress to vote to each of our honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines would scarcely suffice to reclothe them and give them a margin of support while readjusting themselves to full self-support.

We wish it were possible to submit the question to a referendum of the veterans themselves.

Passage of the Six Months' Pay bill would not compel any unwilling veteran to accept $180 from a grateful nation.

But it would insure that no veteran need suffer dire want while re-establishing his civic status.

And it would put the United States Government in respect to its practical gratitude in a relationship which would not give so much cause to Canadians and Australians to view it with pity mingled with contempt.

Press of the Nation on Boston Police Strike

BOSTON HERALD.

Commissioner Curtis underestimated the strength of the strike and the promptness with which it would operate. He may have derived his expectation from his own detective corps, which has never exhibited a high order of effectiveness, as the criminal records of Boston bear evidence. But, however obtained, he missed the seriousness of the situation and so delayed the call of his volunteer policemen until yesterday morning at 8 o'clock.

Meanwhile, one part of the Storrow committee has hit upon the plan of getting the old policemen back.

We doubt if the community would stand for such a settlement any more than the policemen. We should not envy the mayor, or other man in public position, who tried to put it over. The public are pretty well worked up. They have seen their street car service stop. When their leaders advised immediate resumption of street car service, the men cried out: "Not till we are good and ready."

The public has seen so much of this—so much of the refusal of men who abandoned their duties and their posts, that we doubt if it is ready to pin the Croix de Guerre on the breasts of the men primarily responsible for the scenes of riot and disorder which disgraced our city on Tuesday night.

BOSTON GLOBE

If the strike of policemen should grow into anything bigger the whole situation instantly would change its aspect. At that instant it would become a question of whether America is ready for a new, radical method of settling labor disputes.

No men sense the danger of this more quickly than the responsible leaders of labor who struggled so long to establish the present basis of dealing with employers. They see the whole framework of modern society as they have helped to build it tumbling into the discard.

* * *

Do those who are advocating sympathetic strikes doubt for a moment where the overwhelming majority of citizens stand on that question?

BOSTON POST.

The night of lawlessness and disorder following the policemen's strike is the most disgraceful chapter in the history of Boston. It would seem incredible that anything of the sort should occur in this usually well ordered city.

For this saturnalia of looting and reckless disorder the striking policemen are directly responsible.

As far as the policemen's strike itself is concerned, it is a failure already, as a result of the very violence and disorder to which it has led.

If any of the important unions go out on sympathetic strike, through the influence of the hoi-headed element among them, they will make a terrible mistake from the standpoint of their own interests, for even that movement would have to be met by the combined forces of law and order, and the failure of such a movement would be a tremendous blow to the prestige of any unions involved.

No soviet mob rule for us, thank you.

NEW YORK HERALD.

Boston, the cradle of Liberty, the home of the fathers of the Republic who laid the foundation of our institutions of law and order and loyal citizenship, has the distinction of being the first American city to have a policemen's strike wherein the officers of the municipality sworn to uphold and enforce the law have refused to obey the very thing they obligated themselves to support.

If the authority of the chosen heads of a city is denied and repudiated, if the city military, which is the police, refuse to obey city government is gone, for back of the Mayor's authority is and must be force. If the authority of the chosen heads of a State is defied by the State troops and the constabulary, what becomes of the State government? If the police in a city, if the State troops in a commonwealth, can strike and defy authority, why cannot the entire army of the United States do the same thing? Is there any limit?

NEW YORK WORLD.

What is happening in Boston can happen in any other large American city in like circumstances. The great majority of the people there, as elsewhere, are predisposed to law and order and never need the restraints of law translated into terms of physical force. But it is equally true that a numerous minority are held in respect for the personal and property rights of others only by compulsion, and when that is withdrawn they revert at once to the control of primitive instincts.

For this situation of general mob rule and riot and looting and murder the Boston police, organized as a labor union, and acting as such in affiliation with other labor unions, stand forth as wholly responsible. They knew exactly what would result from their action. They deliberately invited such a result. They made the certain consequences all the more immediate and widespread by the very publicity and concern of their acts so carefully and showily calculated.

The developments in Boston are the immediate concern of every city in the country. But there the issue is not between the municipality sworn to uphold and enforce the law have refused to obey the very thing they obligated themselves to support.

If the authority of the chosen heads of a city is denied and repudiated, if the city military, which is the police, refuse to obey city government is gone, for back of the Mayor's authority is and must be force. If the authority of the chosen heads of a State is defied by the State troops and the constabulary, what becomes of the State government? If the police in a city, if the State troops in a commonwealth, can strike and defy authority, why cannot the entire army of the United States do the same thing? Is there any limit?

NEW YORK TIMES

Boston, a town nearly 200 years old, has been thrown back into a state of primitive savagery by the strike of her policemen. The public force which has kept down disorder and crime has ceased to act.

The army that should continue operations against breakers of the law and disturbers of the public peace has revolted and deserted. The property and lives of men are protected by their owners or by volunteers. The mischievous and evil part of the community, freed from restraint, finds full play for its activities. The underworld rises to the top; and an ancient and orderly community learns how eager for action and how busy are the enemies of law when the force that is the sanction of its authority is withdrawn.

To permit the public guardian of the public safety to take their orders, not from their superiors, the representatives of the public, but from outside organizations of private men, is an preposterous and impossible as it would have been to ask General Pershing to refer his orders or his plans of campaign to a union of mule drivers.

However disagreeable to all the Bostonians except hoodlums and criminals this police strike has been, it is open, overt and salutary admonition. It is an experiment station of the exotic revolutionary ideas that have been imported into the United States. It must end, as all such experiments must end here.

WASHINGTON POST.

Boston's police are showing all other policemen in the country how to get in bad with the public.

Soon or late the Boston Police Union, as a militant strike or nonstrike, will have to give way and dissolve. It is incumbent upon other cities to see that such unions are not allowed to start.

DO VACATIONS MAKE YOU GROUCHY?

When you return from your vacation don't use your own time and waste the time of others in your place of employment by telling of your trip.

You are expected to come back renewed in vigor, and with the ability and desire to turn out more work than before; but if it causes you to waste valuable time while you recount your experiences the firm is a loser.

If you returned disgruntled with your job and the fact that it is necessary for you to work, then your vacation was a detriment to you.

If you returned with a lot of silly notions and envying those you met who seemed to be living under more favorable conditions you are the worse for it.

Why drive away the sunshine which was yours during that breathing spell you had saved so long to enjoy?

Be grateful to Providence that you came home whole and well.

Rejoice that you saw persons and homes and shops where the standards are higher than yours, because you can profit by the knowledge.

Get all the happiness you can, and refuse to make yourself miserable because you know of some who have greater opportunities for pleasure.

More Truth Than Poetry

STORING UP FUTURE TROUBLE

They feed the Prince at every stop,
He has to eat and eat and eat,
Considering the way they gorge
This precious little son of George,
His future dreams will not be so sweet.

ALWAYS SOMETHING THAT IS TO BE

Every little while we hear that the profiteers are going to jail, but we never hear that they have gone.

WILL HE DENY THE IMPEACHMENT?

Burleson clings so tenaciously to old-fashioned obstinacy that one may be justified in assuming that he wears suspenders and a nightcap.

NO MAN IS INFALLIBLE

Every man has off days. Once in a while "Ty" Cobb doesn't get more than two or three hits in five times up.

IF IT HASN'T, SOMETHING HAS BEEN OVERLOOKED

What has become of the boarding house prune joke? Has the cost of prunes become so high that the prune is no longer a joke?

PERHAPS IT'S TOO WET DOWN THERE

For some reason that has not been explained the President does not appear to have included El Paso, Tex., in his itinerary.

SUSPICIONS CONFIRMED

Ole Hanson has resigned as Mayor of Seattle to go fishing. Public officeholders now have suspected that Ole was a bit queer and he sure of it now.

NO CHANCE FOR NECK-AND-NECK FINISHES.

Airplane racing may be all right, but we wouldn't pay much for the privilege of watching one from a grandstand.

LET HER SPRINKLE SALT ON ITS TAIL.

Germany hopes to join the League of Nations on October 1, provided, it is assumed, that she can discover a League of Nations at that time.

BUT ISN'T IT REALLY A BUSINESS?

"Is your husband a professional man?"

"Oh, yes; he is one of the most successful professional amateur golfers in the country."

MILLIONAIRE SLACKERS WITHOUT COUNTRY

Edward Everett Hale's Famous Story in Real Life

EDWARD EVERETT HALE'S famous story, "The Man Without a Country," has come true in real life. Almost everyone has read the tale—the story of the young man who renounced the United States, and, in consequence, received a sentence of virtual banishment from the land of his birth and never again heard the name of America.

America now has two such outcasts. And compared to them the unfortunate Nolan was a patriot of the clearest water. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll and his brother Erwin, Philadelphia millionaires, have renounced their homeland; they are outlaws. Any citizen of the United States who meets them on the street can, if they refuse to hail, shoot them dead. Before the war they were regarded as representing a high type of young American manhood. Today they are draft dodgers, slackers, outcasts, shunned by every decent man and woman and sought by police and secret service agents all over the country. If captured, they may be shot to death.

Their story, sordid, but interesting, appears in full in next Sunday's issue of the Boston Advertiser.

For some weeks past the Advertiser has printed a series exposing the exploits of the lesser master criminal whose band of expert thieves has succeeded in mulcting states of great American cities of goods worth millions of dollars in the past year. In the next installment the author can scale to you something of the actual organization of this band of master crooks, and the curse pending detective machinery which has been built up by the various officers who have suffered from his workers' depredations. don't miss this series, which is one of the most instructive which has ever appeared in the Magazine Section.

There is nothing particularly new under the sun, as Solomon remarked, but some of our modern conditions are almost unique. For example, labor troubles and strikes are cited as one curse with which our forefathers had nothing to do.

Just to time to upset this theory comes the news that some 3,000 years ago in ancient Egypt a walking delegate appeared out near the Nile, where they were building one of the pyramids, and called the men off the job. And they laid down their tools and walked out just as the present workers would do today in similar circumstances.

They called out the specials, the reserves and the militia—and then Egypt's chief of police took the matter in hand, presented the facts of the case to Pharaoh himself, and won the strike for the workers. The chief—Mallu was his name—left the record of the whole affair engraved on his tomb. A full page of pictures and description of this earliest strike will be found in next Sunday's issue of the Advertiser.

A World Too Complicated
Some Dangerous Shooting
What Mercier Sees
You May Now End Life

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

For the average mind three-quarters occupied with its own affairs there are too many things to think about in this day of hurry, war, protest, profiteering, strikes, Bolshevism, wireless and all other social nuisances and scientific marvels.

For instance:

At a wireless station in Norway is heard a voice speaking in the United States. That voice travelled thousands of miles through the air via the wireless telephone. What are ordinary miracles after that?

A human voice actually talked through several thousand miles of this earth's thick impeding atmosphere. How long before that voice will go through the impenetrable ether, asking the men on Mars "How did you gentlemen dig your canal? We shall need canals like yours by and by, when human attrition our earth becomes absolutely worn so that the waters of the ocean would cover it with a deep everywhere. Like you we shall have to dig canals to hold the extra water. Please tell us how."

At Hammond, Indiana, working men in orderly procession led by an American lieutenant in uniform carrying the American flag are shot down by a crowd of hired gunmen. This is part of the Steel Trust's fight to prevent unions among its employes.

Newspapers representative of the Steel Trust say the men marching with the American flag were "foreign-born," and that those foreign-born strikers were interfering with "two hundred Americans that wanted to get work." Samuel Gompers, An Furuseth, and other pretty fair Americans will be heard in the matter. It will appear to us that workers behaving themselves properly were shot dead because without violence they had tried to keep two hundred "scabs" from taking their places.

On his return from New York, Cardinal Mercier will say that he has seen interesting things in a land of tolerance. He visits a city with more than one million Jewish citizens, and a Mayor who is a Catholic. Also he meets the Governor of New York. New York with more than a million Jews has had a Catholic for Mayor. Rome, a city of Catholics, recently had a Jew for Mayor. The world changes and old rules are broken down.

Almost everything today would surprise the people of olden times. When the Tartars conquered China they wanted to handle the men easily and keep the women. So they made the men let their hair grow in long pig tails. The Tartar galloping on his pony could conveniently seize the pig tail with his left hand, while he cut off the head with the right hand. In our day many Chinese grieve a lot to see the pig tail imposed upon them. The feet of the Chinese women were squeezed from babyhood by Tartar order.

New York decided, September 1st, that it is no longer a felony to try to take your own life, which is about the only thing that people really own. Consequently, a lady of a well-known family, brought ashore from a sea bath with the veins of her wrist cut open in an attempt at suicide, will not be prosecuted. In other days suicide was considered honorable. The Greek philosopher that stumbled as he left his house, then killed himself because he was getting old, was admired for his determination.
